NEAR-NEWS AND CHATTER FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

To the lady first correctly guessing the identity of the person of whom the following is a character sketch, and bringing a copy of this paper to the Tribune office, a cash prize of $1.00 will be given. The subject of the sketch is a prominent citizen of La Crosse. After winning one prize, a contestant will not be eligible to again compete for a period of three months.

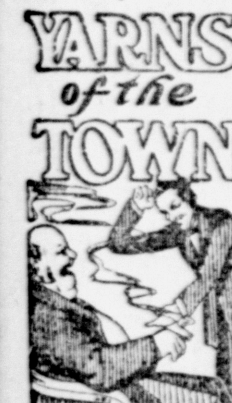

He's one of the fellows who went away and made good. Perhaps it isn't fair to spring him now, for it's a long way from Broadway to Fourth and Pearl, but the Cameron House is still here and with that as a starting point a good sleuth—the kind that used to land Jay Wilson in that play where he was the comedy crook—a good sleuth should arrive somewhere. Anyway, he's here now, and if you can't pick him, ask Jim McCauley, who also is here. When at home he's in Court most of the time, but the man who handled the box office receipts for "Peg o' My Heart" can afford to support a few ex-judges. Oh, well! even Jim Hainsome will admit it's a far cry from Zemoore Bros. to "Madame Sherry," but to Gus Rose and the Davidson boys the dark, slender, grayish gentleman who lets an occasional shade of melancholy enhance the charm of his distinguished personality is the same athlete who loaned his presence to the old First National bank and did impossible acrobatic stunts in the skating rink. If you wish to interview him, call on the telephone at The Stoddard at 3 a. m.—he likes it. By the way, had it not been for the dark cloud of adversity which overwhelmed the ex-champion, our hero might still be in town with big Jim Jeffries and Mr. Moran would never have committed the indiscretion of ignoring the color line. You'll have to hurry if you get him—he'll be Under Cover soon.

When Jos. B. Funke hit upon the idea of using a quartet of comedy policemen to advertise the justly celebrated Jos. B. Funk candies in the industrial parade, his agent borrowed four old uniforms from Central police station. The feature was one of the funniest in the parade, and when it was over three of the pseudo coppers duly returned their blue suits to Chief John Webster. The fourth did not, nor was he seen for two whole days and nights. Then a night patrolman picked him up, still wearing his uniform blue, his star and helmet. He had dropped into a convenient alley to doze, and in the vernacular of the "force," he was "picked."

"I'm glad you took them duds back," he confided to the chief next morning. "When I had 'em on all I had to do was make the rounds, and every bartender in town thought I was a new cop. 'What's yours, pal,' they'd say, the minute I stuck my head in the door. It sure was the ray life. Me for the rest cure."

DID AMERICANS USE LEY DE FUGA AT VERA CRUZ?

Congressional Investigation Probably Will Follow Trouble at the Seaport

CORRESPONDENT STARTS ROW

Lays Authority for Statement to Ensign from U. S. S. Arkansas

REPORTER'S DEPORTATION FADES

Issue Now Is Whether the American Marines Shot Down Fleeing Mexican Prisoners

WASHINGTON, July 11.—A resolution directing the War and Navy departments to submit to the house all the papers in the case of Fred L. Boalt, correspondent for the Newspaper Enterprise association, at Vera Cruz, originally ordered deported for publication of the "ley de fuga" story, and directing him to disclose at whose initiative the deportation order was issued and also whether the naval inquiry at Vera Cruz is "censored" was introduced in the house today by Representative Falconer of Washington.

VERA CRUZ, July 11.—Congressional investigation to determine whether American marines shot down and killed unarmed, fleeing Mexicans under the old Mexican "law of flight" during the occupation of Vera Cruz appeared likely today.

A great sensation followed quickly upon the opening yesterday of a hearing upon the appeal of Fred L. Boalt, correspondent of the Newspaper Enterprise association, from an order of deportation based upon a story regarding the application of marines of the "ley de fuga."

Boalt today said that Ensign William A. Richardson of the battleship Arkansas and other officers had told him that he and his men had fired on unarmed and fleeing Mexicans during the occupation of the city, after telling the Mexicans to run.

The hearing on the Texas, while it was originally designed to pass upon the order of deportation against Boalt, has developed into an inquiry into the action of Ensign Richardson.

Among the correspondents subpoenaed to testify are William G. Shepard of the United Press; Kirke Simpson, of the Associated Press; Robert H. Murray of the New York World, and others.

Officials of the Army and Navy realize that the point at issue had developed from the question of deporting Boalt to the question of whether American marines killed helpless Mexicans after ordering them to run. The "ley de fuga" is one of the oldest and most notorious customs of the Mexican army. It has been condemned throughout the civilized world.

That he had heard naval officials tell of the application of "ley de fuga" to Mexicans during the occupation of this city, was the testimony of William G. Shepard, staff correspondent of the United Press, today before the naval board of inquiry sitting on the battleship Texas.

In his testimony Shepard said he had heard stories of the killing of fleeing unarmed Mexicans during the occupation and that these stories had been told by naval officers in his presence.

"One story I heard," said Shepard, "was that Mexicans had been taken prisoners and locked in a house. Then upon a signal, the story went, they were released and were fired upon. It was said that some were killed while fleeing. I later heard in army circles that Ensign Richardson, about whom the story of ley de fuga was told, had suffered from a sunstroke during the battle. I tried to attribute the stories to the effect of the sunstroke."

"Did Ensign Richardson say in your presence that he had killed anybody?"

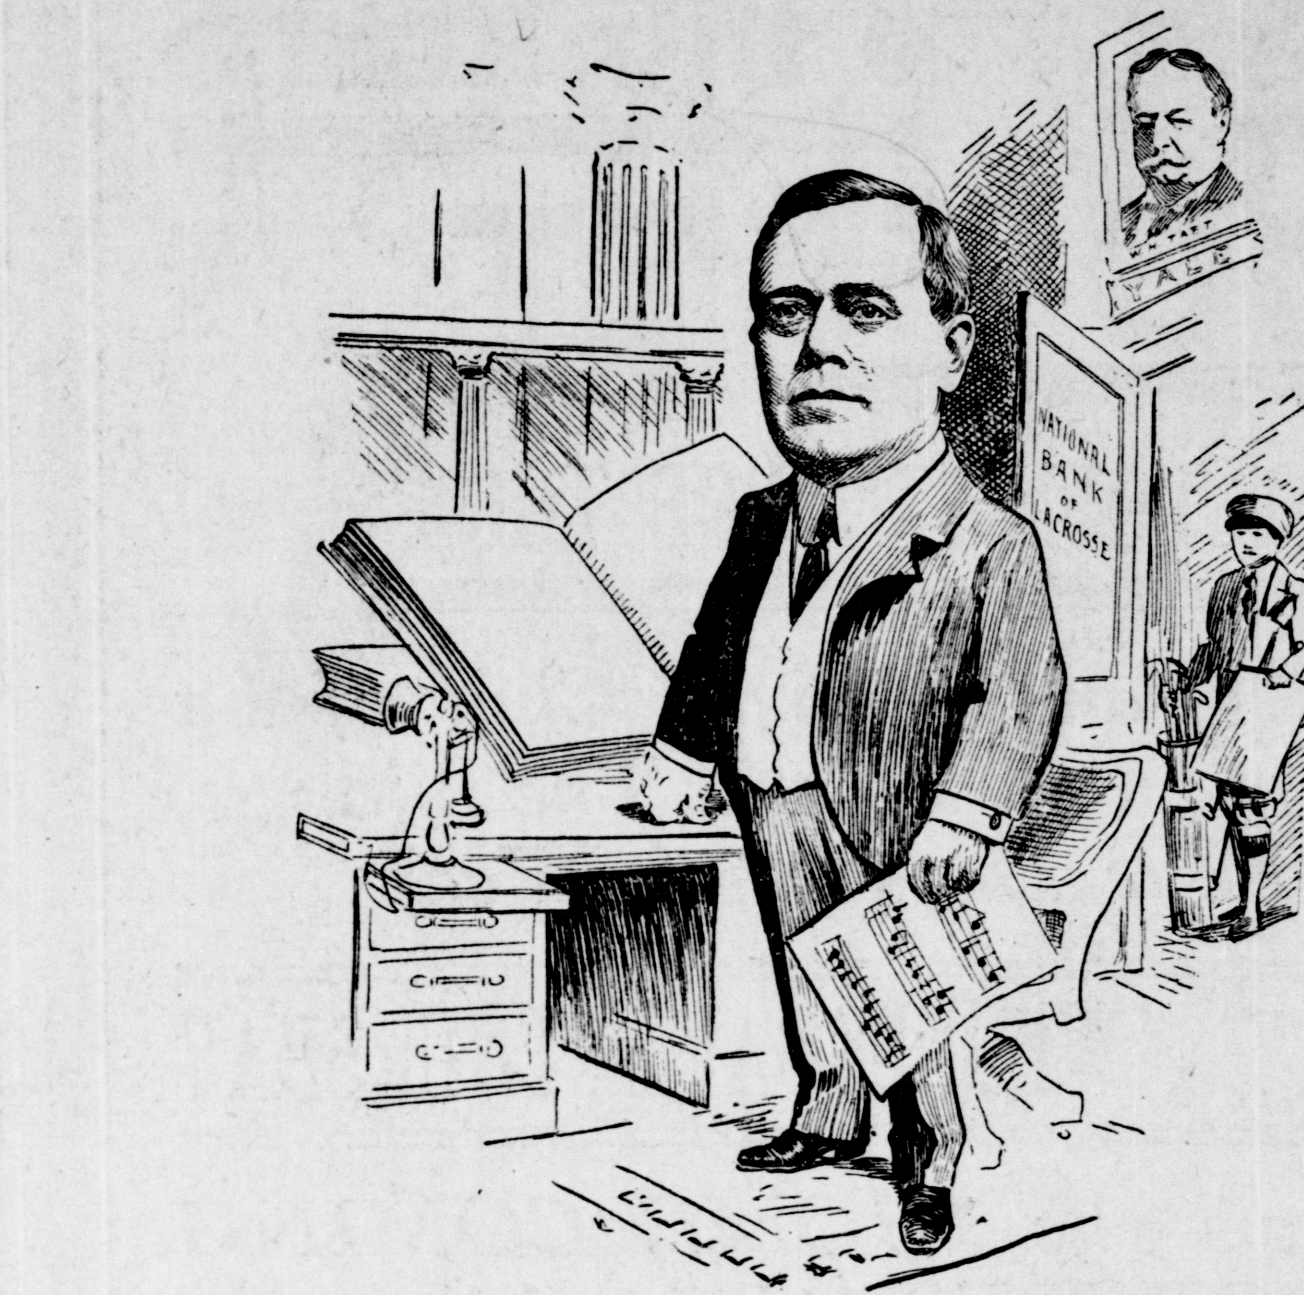

"I heard him say: 'We let a Mexican get within two feet of safety behind a wall and then fired and got him,'" replied Shepard. "He said that the Mexican was not armed and was not in uniform."

Boalt Not Under Arrest

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Correspondent Fred L. Boalt is at liberty in Vera Cruz today and has never been officially under arrest according to a formal report to Secretary of War Garrison today from Brig. Gen. Funston. The report was made in answer to a request for information why Boalt was detained, sent by Mr. Garrison yesterday.

The navy department announced today that Admiral Badger, in command of the fleet at Vera Cruz, had appointed a court of inquiry to take up the charges against Ensign William Richardson of the battleship Arkansas, made by Boalt.

HEAT IS BLAMED FOR ACTIONS OF ONALASKA GIRL

Myrtle Furlong Brought to La Crosse After She Created Trouble in Onalaska

GIRL IN COURT TWICE BEFORE Has Been Before Brindley on Serious Charge; to Be Examined for Sanity

LA CROSSE SUFFERS WITH HEAT Weather Bureau Can Offer No Promise of Relief as City Suffers with Heat

Miss Furlong was found insane late this afternoon and will be taken to Mendota at once. She was examined by Drs. Bananen and Egan.

Onalaska was startled last night by the appearance on the streets of a young woman very lightly clad, who was screaming and shouting at the top of her voice. Excessive heat is thought to have been partially responsible for her condition.

The girl was Miss Myrtle Furlong, 22 years old, and a niece of Theodore Gears, of Green's Coulee. She rushed into the crowd at the Crystal theater and it was with great difficulty that she was overpowered. The town marshal, Luke Rand, was unable to manage the girl alone and called two or three citizens to his assistance.

The sheriff in La Crosse was notified and Deputy Ritter went to Onalaska after the young woman. He found her clad in only a single garment and will have her examined for her sanity.

An effort to find more clothing at the home of the uncle failed. The girl has been in the county court twice before on charges of a serious nature.

The temperature in La Crosse and this vicinity has been unusually high for the past two days. The high mark registered yesterday was 88, but the heat was hard to stand, because of the moisture in the atmosphere. It is expected that the mark today will be considerably higher than 88.

The nights have also been unusually warm, and few have been able to find relief.

Relief in Water

Scores flock to the river every afternoon and the crowd has been close to a hundred every day this week.

Motor, row boats and canoes have dotted the river in the evening. Contractors and all employers who have men working out of doors are using care to see that none are overcome by the heat. In some cases it has been necessary to suspend work entirely.

The weather bureau can make no promises for relief. "No decided change in temperature" is the bulletin.

BLAME STORSTAD FOR BIG DISASTER

Collision Which Cost 1,032 Lives Blamed on Officer of Norwegian Collier

PRAISE KENDALL'S SEAMANSHIP He Is Censured, However, for Failing to Give Wider Birth to Coming Ship

QUEBEC, Que., July 11.—The steamer Storstad was held at fault in the findings reported today following the investigation into the sinking of the steamship Empress of Ireland on the morning of May 29 when 1,032 lost their lives.

The Empress of Ireland was rammed by the Storstad and sank almost immediately. The commission report found responsibility divided on some points.

Approve Kendall

The board of inquiry in its report submitted by Lord Mersey today found that the Storstad ported her helm and thus brought about the collision. The opinion is expressed that Captain Kendall's action in stopping his ship was good seamanship, but the suggestion is made that his failure to give a wider berth formed a contributory cause of the collision.

Tettens, chief officer of the Storstad, was held mainly at fault for the report stating he was "wrong and neglected altering his course" and that he was to blame for not calling the captain.

Of the many recent sea disasters and accidents the sinking of the Empress of Ireland was most appalling in loss of life and suddenness since the Titanic crashed into an ice berg and sank with 1,490 passengers and crew April 14, 1912.

It was less than 15 minutes after the prow of the Storstad ripped into the side of the big passenger ship that the latter went under. There were 1,387 souls—passengers and crew—aboard the Empress. Of this company 355 were saved.

Stories Conflict

The commissioners declare the stories told by witnesses aboard the Empress of Ireland and those on the Storstad are irreconcilable.

The witnesses from the Storstad, the report points out, said they were approaching so as to pass "red to red" or to the left of the Empress. Witnesses from the latter ship said they were approaching so as to pass "green," or to the right.

Considering the different stories told the commissioners declared: "We have therefore thought it advisable to adjust our conclusion almost entirely upon other events spoken of by the witnesses and upon their probable sequence in order to arrive at a solution so difficult."

NAME SCHULZE TO SUCCEED FATHER IN CITY COUNCIL

North Side Young Man Defeats Former Ald. Granke by Three Votes; to Be Seated Soon

RE-FER IMPORTANT MEASURES

Purchasing Committee to Be Fought Over as Will Proposed "Near Stop" Rule; Autos to Wait

WISCONSIN HOUSE GETS LICENSE

Wehrer Was Refused but Oscar Gschwind Gets Coveted Permit from City "Dads"

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID

Elected Arthur Schulze as successor to his father, the late Ald. Robert Schulze of the Fifth ward.

Granted Oscar Gschwind a license to run the Fred Wehrer saloon at the Wisconsin House. Passed ordinance compelling autos to wait while street cars take on or discharge passengers.

Referred ordinance creating purchasing committee. Re-referred ordinance providing for near corner stops by street cars.

Authorized mayor to name committee to attend convention Wisconsin League of Municipalities at Madison, committee men to serve without salary. Decided to hold but one meeting a month.

With three votes to spare Arthur Schulze was last night elected Alderman from the Fifth ward to fill the vacancy caused by the death of his father, Robert Schulze.

Otto Granke, former alderman from the ward and the man who was defeated by but a few votes at the last municipal election, was the other candidate and succeeded in mustering eight votes.

Those voting for Schulze were Aldermen Bedessen, Grover, Kempter, Kohn, Neumann, Roelling, E. O. Schulze, Smith, Strauss, Torrance and Barth. Those favoring Granke were Bartl, Collins, Houska, Kroner, Mahoney, Roth, Rybold and Schneberger.

The seat of the late Alderman Schulze was draped in mourning and a bunch of white carnations reposed on the desk.

Row Over Street

A near sensation was caused when Mayor Ori J. Sorensen last night took the floor and accused the members of the board of public works of having failed to compel the contractors, who put in the two blocks of paving on Sixth street from Main to Cass, to follow specifications.

He charged that the work was not done properly, that the street is in poor condition and that property owners there are complaining.

Falk Denies Charge

When appealed to City Engineer George P. Bradish agreed with the mayor and said that the specifications drawn by him had not been followed.

On the heels of this George Falk, member of the board, declared emphatically that the specifications had been followed to the letter and that the street will be one of the finest in the city.

After a symposium on streets, in which practically all of the council participated, the matter was referred to the special street improvement committee.

The city of La Crosse, it was proposed, should purchase five copies of the 1914 Wisconsin statutes. Ald. Mahoney dissented maintaining that five copies of the law are unnecessary. The resolution was referred.

Gets Saloon License

The council approved the granting of a license to the La Crosse Theater providing that institution will comply with certain orders of the theater commission.

Without a dissenting vote, Oscar Gschwind was last night granted a license to run the Fred Wehrer Wisconsin House saloon. Gschwind is the man who put in an application when it became apparent that the council would not grant a permit to the proprietor of the Wisconsin House.

Wehrer was refused a license because the saloon has been, say the police, the hanging out place of toughs and the breeding place of drunks.

The Booth Fisheries company was granted a permit to erect a fish warehouse at Second and Cameron avenue.

To License Carnivals

If an ordinance introduced last night by Ald. C. A. Worth passes, all carnivals and other attractions will be licensed here. The Interstate Fair association is exempted. Almost immediately after the first reading of the ordinance Ald. Mahoney moved for its adjournment.

Minnesota Farmer Praises the City on Home-coming but Points to the Bridge

IS ONE THING THE CITY LACKS La Crosse Doing More for the Community Than Any Other Town, Is Statement

SHOWS WHAT THE BRIDGE COSTS For Farmers Coming to the City Four Times a Week Annual Tax Is Fifty-two Dollars

Henry Radtke, a farmer living near La Crosse, has sent The Tribune a letter, praising the business men and merchants for the Fourth of July festival and at the same time making an appeal for a free bridge.

Mr. Radtke says that if La Crosse citizens would work as hard for a free bridge as they did for the success of the Home-Coming week the toll would be removed and very soon at that. La Crosse, now, is doing more for the surrounding community than any other town or city, according to the writer, but the free bridge is one thing lacking.

His Letter

His letter, addressed to the editor of The Tribune, follows: Editor of The La Crosse Tribune, La Crosse, Wis.

Having attended the week-end celebration of the grand Home-Coming in La Crosse, allow me through the columns of your valuable paper to thank the officers, merchants and others of the city of La Crosse for the great sacrifice they made in spending their money, time and energy to accomplish what I believe was the greatest celebration ever held in the city of La Crosse.

Thanks From Minnesota

Allow me to thank you each and every one in behalf of the citizens of Minnesota, for I feel that your efforts were, in a measure, the means of bringing us nearer to you as friends and patrons.

Best of Order

It speaks well for our "Home City" that there was the very best of order in everything connected with this grand Home-Coming and celebration.

I am proud of the city of La Crosse! It was a delight to see the peace and quiet and good behavior in the largest gathering ever held in the city.

Doing Much, But—

The parade was far beyond my expectation and I was delighted with every feature of it.

La Crosse has done more, and is still doing for its surrounding community than any other city or town that I know of. And yet, my dear aldermen, merchants, business men

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Hodgdon, Maine.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

FROM BACK HOME

By LAURA KIRKMAN

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Fay Trenton, snow girl, let herself into the little flat which she and her brother rented jointly, the first thing her eyes fell on was a note addressed to herself. She snatched up the thing and tore it open with nervous fingers. Henry was such an unknown quantity! He was quite capable of committing any folly in the weeks that she had been on tour.

Her nervousness was justified. "Dear kiddie," ran the note, "I got married yesterday. Back Thursday. Also I've signed with Hitchcock for a month of vaudeville. Isn't that great?"

That was all. No mention of the sort of girl he had married. No hint as to whether either of them had ever seen her before.

"Suppose she isn't our kind!" was Fay's first ejaculation as she sank into a chair beside the hatrack. "But of course she must be; he wouldn't be so silly as to marry a girl who'd be shocked at our ways. It must be one of the bunch."

The next question was: Which one of the bunch? Mazie Dale, Zoe Trilby, Hester Flower?

The quickest way to find out is to go right to the telephone and call up those girls and ask them if they've married my brother," she decided, picking up her suitcase and starting for the back room.

But it was not necessary to go to the telephone to find out that it was not one of these girls. Indeed, as she reached the living rooms she knew that it was no one of the "bunch" that Harry had married; it was a sweet, simple country girl!

This she knew from the changed appearance of the rooms. There, hanging on the wall before her, was a framed motto reading "God Bless Our Home." Here before her on the floor, was a hand-woven rug. On the table beside her lay an open family album.

Fay Trenton sank into a chair and dropped her head in her hands. From the suddenness of it all her shoulders shook for a moment. It was so like the dear old days of long ago—those days when she was a sweet, innocent country girl herself, and knew not that there was wickedness in the world.

"Oh, mother, dear," she whispered "if you'd lived I'd have been a different Fay!"

Then she brushed the tears from her eyes and began to speculate as to what would happen when the bunch came. How many of them would understand? How many of them would look with reverence on the simple, sincere things that the little country bride had brought with her?

"And they're coming back Thursday!" she remembered. "Goodness! I must get the bunch all here and make 'em see that this change is no joke. I must get 'em here before they come home. Loyal old Harry, to put up her pretty, simple things—in this atmosphere!"

In spite of her fear that her new sister-in-law's feelings would be hurt unless steps were taken quickly, she flew about the little rooms with a singing heart. Henry had a wife who would adore him! He would be happy for life! No fickle theatrical girl had Henry's happiness in her hands.

With a smile that seemed to say, "The darling!" she bent over the open album. There staring up at her, was the picture of a long-bearded old man. Across the page was an unmistakable picture of a bridal couple—the man sitting—the woman standing stiffly behind her chair.

"I declare," she cried, as she turned the page and found an almost identically posed picture of Henry and his new little wife.

Just as Fay had pictured her, the girl had a soft, don't-hurt-me sort of expression. Fay loved her instantly. She loved the way her hair was Nature's Armor.

Lobsters and crabs are familiar examples of armor bearing creatures.

The lobsters have wonderful coats of mail suggestive of those devised by human warriors in the age of chivalry.

They combine perfect security with ease of movement, owing to their jointed structure. The manner in which crabs when at rest tuck their legs beneath them so as to bring them under the shelter of the hard carapace is interesting. The crab is doubly protected, for it resembles a water worn pebble, and thus looks to large fishes, which like to eat the crustacean—so long as it keeps still—very similar to the objects with which it is surrounded.

It is seldom that a man looks as handsome as his photograph. And it is much the same way with mail order furniture.

AGAIN THEY POINT TO WISCONSIN

Again the index finger of the teacher points to Wisconsin. We quote an editorial from Collier's Weekly:

Now comes the committee on Franchises of the National Municipal league pointing out that public utilities—i. e., street railways, telephones and electric and gas plants—are primarily urban in character, and that, on general principles, the control of public functions should be localized as much as possible, in order to secure the interest and effective co-operation of citizens.

This is the darkening of counsel that we must apparently expect from our "experts." The solid instances of successful utility regulation in this country are afforded by the work of commissions organized and supported by the state governments—e. g., the railroad commission of Wisconsin. To handle these matters by cities acting separately is merely to pile up confusion and multiply interminable lawsuits. This is the one fundamental exception to the admirable and necessary doctrine of home rule for our cities. These means of transportation and communication must be used so as to better living conditions over the widest possible areas. We must broaden the basis of our community life. The report quoted above was put out by a group of city men only. It is time we heard from the other side.

No doubt Mr. Philipp will resent this as "outside interference" with his campaign of destruction. Also, it should be of interest to those Wisconsin democrats who have contended that the commission control should be changed so that each city would have its own public utility commission. Collier's argument for the state commission is hard to meet. We are glad to note that the editor expressly denies any motion of hostility to the general principles of the home rule, which is sound and democratic.

INVITE DR. EVANS TO SPEND MONTH HERE

When "Dr." Evans, Chicago Tribune health expert, finishes with the mosquitoes at Ravina Park, on the north shore of Lake Michigan, he is very urgently requested to come to La Crosse and repeat the treatment. The physician says he is going to kill every mosquito in Chicago and surrounding country.

La Crosse people who go over to Pettibone park in the evening should carry mouse traps with them. The mosquitoes are unusually healthy this year and the crop has been large.

Success to "Dr." Evans in his work! But we sincerely hope that he will not keep his secret to himself. Any man who can take the mosquitoes from La Crosse and vicinity could have pretty near everything he wanted for his trouble. Bring forward the "Pied Piper."

RACINE CALL PAYS TRIBUTE TO MORRIS

Declaring that Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris will have a distinct advantage over Governor McGovern in the race for the senate because the governor "belongs to a coterie of politicians at Madison whose desire to retain control is paramount to their sense of duty to the public," the Racine Daily Call says:

McGovern is blamed and to a great extent justly, for practically all of the trouble which has cropped out in the administration of state affairs. He is criticised for his flirtation with the bull moosers and for the distressing Ekern mixup and lastly for his flat turn down of the proposition to reconsider the last tax levy with a view of lightening the burden which excessive appropriations have imposed on the people of the state. Above all he is credited with putting personal ambition above his public duty and this is a just or unjust criticism it is operating to his great disadvantage.

Morris on the other hand has peculiarly entrenched himself in the confidence of the people. His record in various public capacities has always indicated a deep realization of duty and strict adherence thereto and personal welfare has been subordinated to the public good.

These are the things of which the people are talking and which are going to cut a wide swath in the campaign.

The "Call," while comparatively a new paper in Racine, has pursued a course of devotion to the general welfare of that community which has given it a strong lead over its older competitors in the matter of popularity and influence. It speaks as an interpretation of the best thought of its community. The candidates it selects will have to be progressive and fearless; if they prove their worth, they will have able and fearless support.

REVEAL SECRETS—HELD.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—Charging that they had divulged secrets regarding the fortifications of the Panama canal, United States Commissioner Krull yesterday issued warrants for the arrest of C. K. Field, editor of the Sunset Magazine; Aviator Robert Fowler, R. A. Dunham, a photographer, and Riley A. Scott, a writer. It is charged that Dunham took photographs from an aeroplane operated by Fowler and that Scott wrote an article published in the Sunset Magazine under the title, "Can the Panama Canal Be Destroyed from the Air?" It is understood that Attorney General McReynolds ordered the arrests.

RACINE PIONEER DIES

Advice

(What to do in hot weather)
When the weather man gets started on the warm and muggy track, Keep cool.
When the perspiration's streamin' down the middle of your back, Keep cool.
When the asphalt pavement's warping as it never warped before, When the wax girls are all melting in the window of the store, When you're practically frazzled and your life seems but a bore, Keep cool.

When the butter on the table must be dished up with a spoon, Keep cool.

When your dashboard gets the rabies and goes crazy as a loon, Keep cool.

When there's not a breath of ozone and no sort of vagrant breeze, When the leaves are hanging silent and dejected on the trees, And there's not sufficient atmosphere to furnish one good sneeze, Keep cool.

When your bedroom is as torrid as old Dante's famous dream, Keep cool.

When the solder in the water tank is melting at each seam, Keep cool.

Do not fail to keep your temper. Don't get exercised or fussed, When your union suit is clinging and your throat is full of dust; It will be a whole lot better, so compose yourself and just Keep cool.

A Class Reunion Hero

Hartford Courant: The man who won the long-distance cup at the Yale 1904 class reunion this year, which a number of Hartford alumni attended, traveled all the way from Java, where he represented the Standard Oil company. In thanking his classmates for the cup which a 1904 man won at a class reunion a few years ago, by traveling "from heaven to earth," and he said that the changes in temperature through which he had passed led him to think that he had equalled this previous record, only that he had come from the other direction.

"What was that heaven to earth record?" said one of the fellows who had not been back to a reunion for many years.

"Don't you know that?" said the others. "That was when W— broke off his honeymoon trip in order to come back to the reunion."

ECZEMA ON CHILD ITCHED AND BURNED

In Rash First. Could Not Sleep or Rest. Hard Crust Covered Neck. Awful Disfigurement. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed.

R. F. D. No. 4, Box 55, Holland, Mich.—"My child's trouble began by getting red and sore around her neck, and her face, behind her ears, under her arms, and different parts of her body were affected. The eczema appeared in a rash first. It was wet and looked as if it was weeping. It seemed to itch and burn so that she could not sleep or rest. It got so bad at last that behind her ears was one crust or sore so that I had to cut her hair. There was a hard crust covering her neck. She could not have her clothes buttoned at all. I could hardly change her clothes. It caused an awful disfigurement for the time. She would cry when I had to wash her.

"We had her treated for some time but without success. The trouble had lasted about four weeks when we began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I had not used them more than three days when I could see she was getting better. I got one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment and I had not used more than half of what I bought when she was all cured." (Signed) Mrs. G. C. Riemersma, Mar. 21, 1914.

that the children should not know anything about the impending event, and when the time approached, the girl was sent on a vacation to some relatives in another city.

At last the great event took place and the father came and said to the boy:

"Johnny, you have a new baby brother."

The boy said nothing. The father sat down at his desk and in a few minutes handed the boy a telegram. "Take that to the telegraph office," he said, "and send it to sister. Here is a dollar to pay the charges."

The boy came back and after a while handed the father some change.

"What?" exclaimed the father. "That telegram cost more than thirty-five cents, didn't it?"

"Oh, yes," the boy replied, "the one you wrote would have cost more. I sent one of my own."

"You did?" the father said, "and what did you say?"

"Oh," the lad replied, "I just wired sister: 'I win, it's a boy.'"

There is a certain woman well known in club circles who is the recipient of frequent invitations from another woman whom she met in the most casual manner some time ago, and who is more richly endowed with the world's goods than with education.

A recent urgent invitation to visit at this insistent one's home at the sea shore, ended in this final inducement:

"And as you sit on the front porch this charming to watch the white-sailed boats flit pro and con."

A temperance speaker who wished to illustrate the slavery of alcohol once told this story to a temperance society:

A doctor was examining a patient who insisted that he had a cancer. "Nonsense," the doctor said, "you haven't cancer. Liquor drinking is what ails you. You must quit."

"Gee, doc," was the reply, "is it that serious? Why I thought it was some simple thing that could be helped by an operation."

"This dish, dearest," a young housewife gushed to her husband, "is an original composition of my own."

"Well, honey," replied her indifferent husband, "I should rather my pet, that you would cook after the old masters."

I took this as a civility, and quite believing him candid in his speech, and he must have read the doubt in my glance, for he continued:

"Nay, I mean neither more nor less than I say; I owe you much, for you have brought hope and purpose into my life, of which I here give you a full acknowledgment."

"God send you quickly reach London," I said, for I was thinking of my darling, and he Maxwell's. It was high maddening to me when I let my mind run in that direction.

"What would you have me say to her, Farraday?" he asked, turning to me.

"That I pray God she is well," I made answer.

"Tush, Farraday," he broke in, with the shadow of a smile on his bearded lips. "You mean you pray God she be not wed to Nevil Maxwell."

"I pray that, too," I muttered hoarsely, for his speech stung like a lash.

"If she is her mother's daughter her hand will never go to him who has not already won her heart, let Maxwell storm and bully as he choose; you may take that sop of comfort, Master Farraday," and he gave me a grim smile.

"That I know, too," I said, and I had every reason for believing this, for I would have declared my very life depended on it.

"Well, and what shall I say to her as coming from you," he asked, after a moody silence.

"That never for one moment have I ceased to think of her."

"Is that all?" he questioned drily.

"And that the thought of her has added a thousand-fold to the sorrow and the joy of my life here."

"So it must, Farraday; there has been the one experience we have had in common." And he looked at me with kinder eyes, I thought. He fell to staring into the red embers on the hearth, then he said: "I shall not put one word in your way, Farraday; this is for her to decide. I have naught to do with it. Does that give you good content?"

"Yes, for I have never known where to have you," I cried.

He laughed shortly, but, as I thought, not without a certain weary bitterness to his brief mirth.

"Do you think it a light matter that I have but found my child to lose her?" he demanded, fixing his dark eyes upon me in sadness.

I had no answer ready for this, and so was silent. He went on, dropping his voice to a whisper.

"I can never live in England until times change again; I go back now at the risk of my life. I doubt if you would live elsewhere, so she must make choice of which it will be—and her choice is already made."

"So you will not hazard remaining in England?"

"Not a day longer than necessary; I go about there with a noose fitted to my neck. I have almost come to the resolution to return hither when my mission over the seas is accomplished, for Newport bring word that the king has under advisement the granting of a fresh charter to the colony, by which land may be held there on the same tenure as in England. I would not put it past his blessed majesty to be even generous with what does not belong to him—eh, Farraday? Once he starts to reckless giving of another's goods, who knows there may not come a time when the Emperor Powhatan will lack for that scant six feet of earth we all must needs lie down upon in the end."

At another time I might have combatted his cynic sophistries, since any man of clear moral sense must know that a Christian King can do no better for righteousness' sake than rescue a land from its pagan people; indeed the land and the fulness thereof is the Lord's, which I take it gives as clear a title to such countries as these as any man could wish. But I had only to be thankful me of Mary to be tender and compassionate of Marshall's faults of logic and belief. He spoke again in the silence I was maintaining.

"Beyond a doubt you have so much the best of me in this matter, Farraday. I can only look upon myself as your ambassador. That I can tell her you still live, will be my chief claim on her love. Knowing this I cannot say I shall not again sail hither with Newport when the time comes. A broken man, whom it has pleased God should outlive the many things I have outlived, might do worse than cast his lot wholly in this new land."

In very sorrow for him, I burst out something about not minding where I lived, for on the spur of the moment I could have sworn that in spite of famine, sickness, and the savages, Virginia was the most agreeable spot in the world to me; but he put my words aside by a gesture.

"I had not thought to bring her hither, and you have friends and kindred in England, do you not forget that?"

He quitted his stool.

"Must you go so soon?" I asked for it came upon me with a kind of a shock that I had said nothing of what lay nearest my heart.

"It is nearing mid-night, I dare say, and I sleep aboard ship tonight since Newport weighs anchor at break of day. If we do not meet again—" and he made as if to hold out his hand.

But I told him I would walk with him to the shore.

It was long past the early bedtime of James Town kept, for no gleam of light came from the huddle of huts. In silence we went from the fort and presently gained the shore, where two sailors with one of the ship's boats were waiting Marshall's coming.

"God keep you, Farraday!" said Marshall as he took my hand.

And as well as the lump that had quickly come would allow, I wished him a safe and speedy voyage. Then he stepped into the boat and the sailors pushed off from the shore. But I stood on the sands a long time after I had ceased to hear the splash of oars.

GIRL "BUMS" AS BOY

DENVER, Col., July 11.—Ruth Myers, a pretty 18 year old Chicago girl, sat in the matron's office at the city jail today and told of her experience while masquerading as a man. For two months she has mingled with men, toiled with them, beaten her way about the country on passenger trains, begged nickels on the streets and acted generally as a "hobo." And not until last night was her deception detected. Her only reason for masquerading, she said, was that she "always wanted to be a boy."

Even if you saved 5 cents on the dollar by being elsewhere, which is doubtful, you would lose 95 cents on the dollar to your town, which is certain; and the town always lost the 95 cents you can see where we would soon be financially.

Sixty-seven Trunk Lines West of Chicago Will Be Requested for Eight-hour Day

CHICAGO, July 11.—Conference of the heads of the railroad unions and a count of the strike vote of the locomotive firemen and enginemen were continued here today to clear the way for the delivery July 14 of the ultimatum of the organizations to the railroads. It is certain, the union men declare, that on that date the sixty-seven trunk lines west of Chicago will be notified that unless they reduce the working day from ten to eight hours, a general strike will be ordered.

Forecasts of the vote are that more than ninety per cent favor a strike. Eighty thousand operative employees of the road are involved. Railway managers do not take the situation as seriously as labor unions say it is.

Something Worth Trying.
Anybody who has ever tried, for five minutes, a big motive, ever tried working a little happiness for other people into what he is doing for himself, for instance, if he stopped to think about it and how it worked and how happy it made him himself, would never do anything in any other way all his life. It is the big motives that are efficient.—Crowds.

FAMILIARITY WITH NUDE URGED AS MORAL MEASURE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., July 15.—"Children of both sexes and adults as well should bathe and dress together freely, frankly, openly and without prudish apology."

This statement made by Miss Jessie Phelps, professor of psychology in the Michigan state normal college, Ypsilanti, in the closing lecture of a "good health week" series here was the cause of wide discussion today in Ann Arbor.

Miss Phelps urged open study of the nude, both for adults and children, as a corrective for present day immorality.

Miss Phelps said that the true story of sex should be told to children before they have reached their fifth year and she urged that they be made familiar with the nude of each sex.

BIG DIAMOND WAR IS ON TOMORROW

The Nelsons vs. the Clothiers.

Such will be the shout of the umpire at the opening of the game tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock before the crowd of fans at League park. La Crosse baseball fans will have one of the treats of the year, when the leaders of both sides of the city hook up.

For the Clothiers, Weigel and Copsey are the choice for the hurling job, while for the Nelsons the invincible "Chalky" Jim Squiers will assume the mound. It will be master against master.

In case of a victory for either team, the winner will be the one with luck in the "breaks," for both teams are so evenly matched in playing ability and baseball strategy that the outcome is a toss up.

This town would move faster if you did.

A vivid, throbbing, tumultuous portrayal of the mad, lawless, passion-driven life of today. The Salamander is a real woman, one of the few real women in recent American Fiction.

VIROQUA MAN NEW STATE CANDIDATE

MADISON, Wis., July 11.—J. Henry Bennett of Viroqua on Friday filed his nominating paper in the office of the secretary of state as a candidate for republican nomination for state senator in the Thirty-first district. His papers contained 657 names, being three times as many as required by law. Mr. Bennett also filed his statement claiming that he had spent $27.25 for campaign purposes to July 8, Congressman J. C. Each of La Crosse, candidate for republican nomination for congressman in the Seventh district to succeed himself, filed a statement declaring he had spent $15.55, and Congressman James J. Frear of Hudson, candidate for congressman in the Tenth district to succeed himself, filed a statement declaring that he spent $29.10 for campaign purposes.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Thickness and Lustre at Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

NO EVIDENCE TO PROVE THE CHARGE

Girl Found Not Guilty of Being Inmate of Disorderly House by Jury

A jury in Judge Edward Cronon's court yesterday afternoon found Mrs. Helen Claybourne not guilty of being an inmate of a house of prostitution. Twenty-five witnesses appeared and prominent among those testifying against her was B. S. Steadwell, publisher of a Purity magazine and social reformer.

The girl was charged with being an inmate of an alleged resort owned and operated by Hazle Winters, at Second and Pine streets.

The court held that no evidence on which a jury could base a conviction was introduced.

Attorney Frank Withrow defended the girl.

BOY SCOUTS TAKE MANY LONG HIKES

Lansing Organization Is a Live One; Mrs. Bensch Celebrates Birthday with Friends

LANSING, Iowa, July 11.—The Boy Scouts, fifteen in number, hiked to the north of Mount Hosmer on Thursday, and the adjacent country, covering at least ten miles in the course of their travels. A large rattler went down to death at the hands of the company, and they proudly detached the rattles. The snake had seven rattles and a button, and the matter was taken up by proper authority to have the boys realize the bounty on same. Friday a hike to the Trout pond was accomplished, and the usual camp tactics carried out. The tramps taken by the Scouts are being derived, that outsiders are joining the ranks almost daily. Despite the intense heat prevailing, interest in the proposed trips continues to grow, instead of abating.

Celebrates Birthday.
Mrs. Edward Bensch celebrated her fifty-fourth birthday Thursday afternoon, a company of ladies assisting in the festivities. Cards, fancy work and a general social time was enjoyed by all participants, a dainty luncheon supplementing the entertainment afforded. Many remembrances of the occasion were left as mementoes of the guests' kindly regard for their hostess.

Hon. A. M. Follows and Mrs. Follows entertained at a six o'clock dinner Wednesday evening, the guests of honor being Rev. Crowder and wife of Cedar Rapids. Rev. Frank Pease and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Albert, Rev. Nofske, and Rev. and Mrs. Crowder comprised the company.

At Harpers Ferry.
The Catholic Lady Foresters of Harpers Ferry will this year entertain the courts of the county. July 15 is the date set for the picnic, and a splendid attendance is expected. Lansing court will attend in a body, and large delegations from other lodges have signified their intention of being present. The high chief ranger of Chicago will, if possible, enliven the gathering with her presence.

To Summer Camp.
The Continental Camp Order will take a launch trip to Hoytman Sunday, as guests of the George Roeder family, at their summer camp. Well filled hampers will accompany the crowd, which promises to be large.

Continue the Work
And still the city continues with its good work. The Third street gutter will not end at the Presbyterian church, but go right on up the hill, where the rush of water always commences. Mayor Conway and the public spirited citizens who have so ably supported this enterprise, even against strong objection, are certainly in line for more than common congratulations.

To Fight Rats
Bubonic plague, the sound of which sends every tremor of horror to pass over one, has been discovered in New Orleans, and the infection is claimed to have been disseminated by rats. Now comes the cry nation wide to exterminate the rodents, especially those states along the Mississippi river. Iowa, never behind in taking up a good cause, has especially brought the matter before the boards of health, and the rat population will doubtless diminish materially in a very short period of time. Lansing has altogether too many of these pests, especially since the phenomenal rise of the river, which has driven them into the town. It would be a very wise plan to set a few traps, or lay the understrates out with a dose of poison, and then consign the remains to a bon fire.

DUBUQUE PLAN RECEIVES PRAISE
La Crosse Would Do Well
to Copy After the Iowa City Is Statement
by Editor

The Houston County Chief, published at Hokah, Minn., has a few things to say this week about La Crosse and a public market. H. E. Wheaton, who is the editor of the paper, fires several charges of buckshot at the Bentley plan in an editorial under the heading "La Crosse in Trivial." He says the Chief has a right to criticize because it represents a large portion of the people who will be affected by the outcome of the struggle here for a market.

The Chief favors the Dubuque plan and claims it has been successful and that it would succeed in La Crosse. The editor winds up by saying that La Crosse business men will be "chumps" if they bite on this visionary scheme. A part of his article follows:

"La Crosse wants a public market, but doesn't know how to get one, and is too proud to pattern after cities that have a market and are making a success of it."

The Chief criticizes the city of La Crosse in this matter and claims its right to do so, inasmuch as it represents a large portion of the people who will be affected by the outcome of the struggle which is going on now to give birth to the new department.

"Dubuque has a market, known from ocean to ocean—one whose merits have been advertised and plan has been patterned after by people of many other cities with great profit."

"There is no hawking on the streets, and there is an ordinance preventing grocers from buying produce from the farmers before 9 a. m. There is a market master, who has charge of the place to see that each farmer gets his proper stall and to do weighing, etc., and preserve order. After 9 o'clock the grocers come to the market to buy."

"How much more simple this plan is than the La Crosse plan may be judged by noting that the people buy direct from the farmers and the city is under no obligation to 'take everything' the farmers bring in, as some of the visionary promoters of the La Crosse plan are setting forth."

"Moreover, the La Crosse system gives no chance to the people to put in a good man for market master, but ties the thing up to the promoter of the scheme. It is a cumbersome system, and unbusiness-like affair and its operation would put the city in debt and cause a disaffection among the farmers, which are all avoided by the more simple Dubuque method."

COON PROBLEM IS FOR THE FUTURE

North La Crosse Woman
Who Has Followed Case
Urges Public to Deal
Generously With It

"KIND, PATIENT AND LOYAL"
That Is What She Says of Woman Whom Officials Called Wasteful and Incompetent

The following letter is from a prominent North La Crosse woman who has shown a kindly interest in the Coon family. It forcibly sets forth the fact that the problem is not a temporary one. Note its sympathetic and comprehending attitude toward the poor mother, herself in invalid, in contrast with the talk of the wastefulness and incompetence on the part of the officials.

Certainly everyone's sympathy has been quickened in behalf of Mrs. Coon and her family of six little children, who this week lost their husband and father, and find themselves wholly unprepared to meet the forth-coming battles of life.

The county, the Associated Charities, kind friends and neighbors have been standing by the mother loyally at the present time but there are many days and years to come before the children of the family will be sufficiently raised to care for themselves. The mother who has been kind, and patient and loyal in her family, being in very delicate health at the present time, is not able to do any wage earning work nor can she be expected to do any for years to come, if she is to do her duty to her family. The relatives who are willing to do all that they can are so situated financially and having limited earning capacities can do little to relieve the situation.

Therefore, let the mothers, the Christians and the good citizens of La Crosse stand by this home and mother in her sorrow and perplexities in a way that will actually solve problems. The funds at the disposal of the poor commissioner and of the Associated Charities are always very limited and have to be dispensed with great care to provide for the most actual necessities of the usual and emergency cases of want in the city. There are hundreds of homes and persons in La Crosse who can spare a dollar or more to help fortify this home against want and worry, and they should be glad to do it, especially when the mother is so deserving of love and care and kindness, as at the present time.

Contributions for this family if sent or taken or telephoned to Miss Lee, secretary of the Associated Charities at the county court house would be well and wisely cared for and made to do the greatest service over the longest period of time possible.

If our amount must be small let that not deter us in our giving but whatever we do let us get under the burden. The citizens of La Crosse pride themselves on their get-together spirit and it can be made to do no better service than in behalf of a mother and little children.

and citizens, I must still say, "One thing thou lackest."

Give us a free bridge and God will bless you and you will prosper as never before.

Would Get Trade

Farmers and trades people from the surrounding country for miles and miles around will patronize your city who are now trading at the smaller town or sending to the mail order houses.

I know many of you have been working hard to secure a free bridge for us, but some are working just as hard against it. If those who are against a free bridge could only realize what a very small difference it would make in their taxes and how much more of the Minnesota trade they would get, there would be less opposition to it. We are taxed 25 cents every time we cross the bridge into the city and if we cross it four times a week, (and many cross it much oftener) our tax amounts to $52 per year, which is quite a high tax for one farmer to pay for the use of the bridge, whereas the extra tax on a citizen of La Crosse on an average, would not amount to that many cents. Is this not so, Mr. Taxpayer?

Get Together Again
If you will all become ONE in heart, body and mind for a free bridge, as you so loyally did for the Home-Coming and Fourth of July celebration, there is not a doubt in my mind but that we would have a free bridge very soon.

Dear council and citizens of La Crosse:

Please consider this question and take action upon it as soon as convenient. With the kindest regards for our dear old La Crosse and with high hopes for a free bridge in the near future. I am,

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) HENRY RADTKE,

DAVIDSON BOYS IN GOLDEN WEST

"Pate" Secretary of Hood River Commercial Club
and Apple, Land and

FRUIT HAS MADE RICH CITY
From Lumber to Apples La Crosse Boys Have Gone
with Zest that Marks
Sturdy Pioneer

This story is for those privileged people who have breakfasted amply upon a half dozen Hood river strawberries that crimsoned the blushing cream with each succulent slice cut to the measure of a breakfast spoon, or have buried eager teeth in the inviting red cheek of a Hood River apple.

It comes to mind now because La Crosse friends have been enjoying the privilege of a home-coming visit with Mrs. P. S. Davidson, well known and well beloved in the Gateway city since the sturdy lumbering days when the Davidsons, father and sons, made history in the big saw mill and with the great towing fleet that were the backbone of La Crosse industry.

Commercial Secretary
Today P. S. (Pate) Davidson, the eldest son, is secretary of the Commercial Club of Hood River, Oregon, the organization that works for the improvement of that greatest of fruit producing centers which last year marketed more than $1,000,000 worth of the most luscious fruit the world has ever known.

A Thriving City
When the lumber business began to "peter out" here, the Davidson boys went west. Hood River then was a rural village. Today it has a water plant capable of producing 100,000 H. P., two fine hotels, a large vinegar factory, machine shops, wagon works, and other factories, a splendid mercantile district and a commercial club of more than 300 working members.

Fortune is Theirs
The Davidsons have grown up with the community, enjoying a pioneer's share in the expanding prosperity. It is easy to see them work there, as they worked here, earnestly and courageously while at it, ready for the youth-holding hour of recreation when work is done. Occasionally we remember them, when John C. Burns has the good fortune to secure for us a choice assignment of the "Fancy Spitzensburgs" of the Hood River "Apple, Land and Orchard Company."

CARRANXA WILL REFUSE TO TREAT

Is Now Drafting His Official Refusal to Meet
the Huerta Delegates

WILL SOON BE IN MEXICO CITY
Carranza Has Been Warned
Foreigners Must Be
Respected when Caital Is Taken

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Until Carranza's definite refusal to discuss a provisional government with Huertistas delegates reaches here, the A. B. C. Meritators will decline to discuss its effects on the general mediation plan. Word has been received that Carranza is preparing it and that it will be in the hands of the mediators Monday or Tuesday.

No Troops to Capital
The question of protection of foreigners in Mexico City when the capital is assaulted by the constitutionals has been settled so far as the government is concerned. No American troops will be sent there. The foreign colony, under the direction of the marines of Germany, France and England, now there, is well armed and equipped. It is believed that it can protect itself if necessary.

Urgent representations have been made to Carranza through Consul Sillman that there must be no anti-foreign outrages. It is believed that Huerta will flee on the approach of the constitutionalists columns and that the latter will immediately post guards in the foreign quarter.

The armies of Villa, Obregon and Gonzales will concentrate for the march on the capital within the next few days making available a force of 50,000 to oppose Huerta's army of far less than half the number. The fall of Huerta is now considered certain.

Guaymas Surrenders
JUAREZ, Mexico, July 11.—The majority of the troops of the federal garrison at Guaymas, on the west coast of Mexico surrendered during the night to constitutionalists under Gen. Salvador Alvarado, according to dispatches received today from Alvarado at constitutionalist headquarters. Final arrangements are being completed today for the transfer. Gen. Joaquin Tellez, federal commander of Guaymas, evidently expected to be executed but Alvarado telegraphs that he has spared his enemy's life.

Further advices from General Obregon indicate his victory at Guadalupe was most sweeping. Obregon's forces are pursuing scattered bands which fled to the mountains. The Villa-Carranza mediators left Torreon today for their posts, having successfully arranged all questions brought before them. Their principal accomplishment was in temporary healing the breach between Villa and Carranza and in persuading Villa's fourteen generals, who recently repudiated Carranza, to swear allegiance to him as "first chief." General Angeles is retained in General Villa's army, despite Carranza's desire to oust him.

Flee Mexico City
MEXICO CITY, July 11.—All branch banks of the National Bank of Mexico are to be closed. There are 61 branches throughout the republic, many being in cities which have been captured by the constitutionalists. With a special train waiting here ready to start for Puerto Mexico, many former government officials and other leading Mexicans are expected to flee from the capital today. Esteva Ruiz, who has been acting as minister of foreign relations will be aboard this train if it is declared. Many believe Huerta is paving the way for his retirement in the appointment of Don Francisco Carajal who was sworn in as minister of foreign relations last night.

CARP RAISED
With the aid of the city pile driver, the Carp, the big launch which was rammed and sunk Tuesday afternoon by the Kalitan, was raised yesterday afternoon from the bed of the Mississippi river, where it sank under thirty feet of water. Diver Henry Hoffman discovered the location of the boat at a point a half block out from the Sta-Rite Engine works.

CROPS BOUNTIFUL SAYS HIRSHHEIMER

La Crosse Banker and Manufacturer Back from the West Says They Will
Exceed All Records

Never in its history has the west seen such bountiful crops. Business there is not bad—it is depressed, due to pending federal legislation. The lumber industry is not what it was. For weather and crops there is no state like Wisconsin.

These were some of the statements today of A. Hirshheimer, president of the Batavian National bank and head of the La Crosse Plow Co., who returned last night from a five weeks tour of the west. "In Washington and Oregon," said Mr. Hirshheimer, "they have never seen such grain crops as this year's. The fruit crop is equally as bountiful. This is true of crops of every state between here and the Pacific coast."

The lumber business is slow, due to lack of consumers. Mr. Hirshheimer is of the opinion that they will have no difficulty in harvesting the crops.

Business conditions, he maintained, are not as lively as they should be. This is caused, chiefly, he said, to pending legislation, the larger investors waiting the outcome of the trust bills now before congress.

"There is nothing in particular which could be blamed for the depressed condition," he said. "The people are waiting to see just what the administration is going to do. I don't know as pending federal legislation will vitally affect people there but they are hesitant to invest and will not."

He says they are also waiting to see what effect the Panama canal will have on that section.

NAME SCHULZE TO SUCCEED ATHER IN CITY COUNCIL

ney read a communication from the North Side Progressive league asking permission to use the north side streets for a carnival.

The application for a carnival was held over and will be acted upon at a special meeting of the council to hear arguments on the Worth ordinance.

A resolution by Ald. Strauss provides for the repairing of West avenue from Main to Jackson streets.

War on Expense
A report of the city clerk showed that it cost the city of La Crosse $644.93 to run the police automobile during 1913.

Ald. Burt Smith thought the amount outrageous, explaining that he runs his cars for much less. Ald. Torrance says his auto bill is nowhere near that amount.

Alderman Mahoney defended the amount pointing out that the car is used winter and summer, that storage has to be paid on it because the city does not provide a place to keep it and that it is used in all kinds of work for the city.

Autos Must Wait
Hereafter autos will not dare pass a street car while it is halted for the purpose of taking on or letting off passengers. The measure is one calculated to promote public safety and is in force in practically every modern city in the country.

To end what promised to be a long-drawn and bitter contest the ordinance to create a city purchasing committee, was re-referred. It was recommended for death by the ordinance committee and a minority report was brought in by Ald. Kempster.

Despite the fact that Mayor Sorensen left the chair to fight for the passage of the "near stop" ordinance the measure was killed and cars will continue to stop on the far side of the streets.

Big Delinquent Tax
By request, Ald. Bartl introduced for its first reading an ordinance to compel saloons to take curtains and screens from doors and window of saloons after closing hours.

The uncollectable delinquent tax for 1913 totals $749.62 reported Ald. Torrance, chairman of the finance committee. City Treasurer Young was authorized to strike the amount from his books.

The council will return to the one meeting a month system. The bi-monthly meetings were conceived as a plan to shorten sessions and save the city money. Instead they have increased the labor for city officials and have saved nothing. The resolution to return to the old system was introduced by Ald. Torrance and met little opposition.

Ald. Mahoney read a lengthy resolution protesting on the lack of enforcement of auto regulations.

MADISON, Wis., July 11.—Burglars made away with over $700 in money, jewelry and gents' furnishings from the store of Sidney P. Rundell. Their loot included $50 in money, four rings, valued at nearly $400, one watch, twenty-five dozen silk neckties and a number of shirts. They gained entrance from the roof of an adjoining building.

Couldn't Be Done This Time
A stout woman was always in the habit of buying two seats when she went to the theater, in order that she could have plenty of room. The other afternoon she went to a matinee and, passing inside, handed the two tickets to the attendant.
"Where is the party who is going to use the other ticket?" he asked.
"I'm going to occupy both seats myself," explained the woman.
"I'd like to see you do it," said the attendant, looking closely at the tickets. "The seats are on opposite sides of the aisle."—Pearson's Weekly

Pat's Ingratitude
Two Irishmen were navigating the rough seas of Randolph street the other night, finding it anything but smooth sailing. One of them, who seemed to have a trifle less aboard than the other, was supporting his friend, evidently against his will. The latter was sobbing like a child.
"Why, Pat," he cried, trying to wrench himself loose from that gentleman's grasp, "Pat, me boy, what have I ever done to ye that ye won't let me fight ye?"—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Misled
The customer in the grocery store, having ruined his clothes, was hopping mad.
"Didn't you see that sign, 'Fresh Paint'?" asked the grocer.
"Of course I did," snapped the customer, "but I've seen so many signs hung up here announcing something fresh that wasn't that I didn't believe it."

CHURCH NEWS

Episcopal Bishops Target of Attack.
Two Episcopal church bishops are just now targets for severe attacks. Both take the Low Church side and the attacks come from the High Church one. Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts advised in his official address to his Diocesan Convention in May that Episcopal churches in his diocese admit to the Holy Communion persons of other Christian faith. He argued that a Common Prayer Book law, seeming to forbid such course, really has a different meaning, and gave historic data to prove his contention. He said such has been the rule in Massachusetts from earliest times.
Bishop Rhinelander of Pennsylvania, co-operating with some Philadelphia rectors, gave permission for Presbyterian and other ministers to speak from an Episcopal pulpit. The reasons put forward were a desire to try our church unity, the Episcopal church priding itself on being a leader in that movement, and the conviction that the ministers directly affected have Christian messages to deliver which local Philadelphia conditions stand in need of.

Jewish Rabbis Hold Annual Conference
The Central Conference of Jewish Rabbis, just holding its annual meeting in Detroit, took vigorous action to overcome, if possible, prejudice of Christians, many others against the Jews as a people, and against their religion. It authorized the issue, by a special committee, of literature to counteract the many misrepresentations made by magazines, newspapers and organizations of the Jewish people and their religion. It even went so far as to demand the prosecution of organizations declared to be guilty of these things. The most important decision it made from a Jewish point of view, was to co-operate hereafter with all national Jewish organizations and for synagogues to give support to all Jewish organizations.

Activity Great in Heresy Controversies
Mid-summer activity in Presbyterian heresy controversies is great. To push the conservative side, rumors of new newspaper ventures are heard, and men formerly taking no part have come out into the open. The General Assembly committee, appointed to find out if Union Theological Seminary is entitled to all of its endowments or not, on the ground that it teaches one theology when it received money to teach another, declare that it will finish its task this year and give up part of its summer vacation to do it. Its chairman, the Rev. Dr. John F. Carson, is writing vigorously on the conservative side.
The thing that precipitated the summer activity was the bequest of the late Mrs. Morris K. Jessup of New York to Union Seminary of $300,000 on condition that it teach the Bible in its plain English version, minus higher criticism. Conservatives are saying that this condition well represents the minds of the great body of American Presbyterians, and they are watching to see what Union will do. Some say it cannot accept the money; others that it will accept it and go on as it has been doing. The late Morris K. Jessup was a liberal benefactor of Union, and it is over part of his gifts to it, but not all, that the General assembly investigating committee is concerning itself.
This summer controversy is aroused to the point of charging in print and otherwise that Union Seminary is receiving money under false pretenses, and that it stands ready to accept the Jessup $300,000 in the same way. Presbyterian weeklies in Philadelphia and Cincinnati are carrying this controversial matter by the page.

Education Association Rejoices in Success
The Catholic Education Association, which has just held its 1914 meeting, rejoices in its success at securing a hopeful measure of co-ordination and co-operation between the parochial schools and schools for higher education, including the secondary schools for men under control of the orders. The Association has now nearly 1,878 members, some of these being not individuals but educational societies. Fifteen seminaries, eighty-five schools for men, six for women and fifty-four seminaries were represented at this year's meeting.

POEMS
You Ought To Know

THE THREE FISHERS
By Charles Kingsley
Three fishers went sailing out into the West,
Out into the West as the sun went down;
Each thought of the woman who loved him the best;
And the children stood watching them out of the town;
For men must work and women must weep,
And there's little to earn, and many to keep,
Though the harbor bar be moaning.

Three wives sat up in the lighthouse tower,
And they trimmed the lamps as the sun went down;
They looked at the squall and they looked at the shower,
And the rack it came rolling up ragged and brown!
But men must work and women must weep,
Though storms be sudden and waters deep,
And the harbor bar be moaning.

Three corpses lay out on the shining sands
In the morning gleam as the tide went down,
And the women are weeping and wringing their hands,
For those who will never come back to the town,
For men must work and women must weep,
And the sooner it's over, the sooner to sleep—
And good-bye to the bar and its moaning.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, July 11.—Ideal weather conditions and lower cables gave wheat a general bearish sentiment throughout the short market today. Rains in North Dakota and Canada, where they were needed, and a declining market on the Liverpool close were the influences.

Corn became excited and had a spectacular rise. Offerings were very light and reports through producing regions of hot and dry weather caused the shorts anxiety and forfeited the holders to demand higher prices. Closing bids were from ½ cent higher than the early features. Moisture deficiency in crop belts may seriously damage the yield.

After a featureless early market oats followed corn and scored advances of from ¼ to 1½ on the day. This was due to considerable advance sales.

Provisions were dull and firm. Hog receipts at the yards were only

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, July 11.—Two new records in stocks were made on the market today within the first half hour when New Haven dropped four points to 55½ and Ontario and Western lost a point, thereby dropping to the lowest figure in twenty years. The New Haven drop was believed to be the result of liquidation by holders who were apprehensive of suit for dissolution under the anti-trust law, such action being regarded as inevitable.

AERO ELIMINATIONS ON AT ST. LOUIS

Nine Pilots Start in Trials to Pick America's Representative at Race Next Fall

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Nine pilots and their aides were out at Prieester's Park this morning supervising the filling of their balloons for the elimination race which will start at five this afternoon to decide who will be one of the American aeronauts to represent their country in the Gordon Bennett international race from Kansas City this fall. Captain H. E. Honeywell of St. Louis and Ralph Upson of Akron, Ohio, who have already won victories for America, will be the other two representatives in the international contest. They will attend the start this afternoon but will not participate.

The balloons are scheduled to get away in this order:

- 1—Hoosier; Pilot, Warren Rator, Brookville, Ohio; aide, Herbert Rator.
- 2—America III; pilot, Dr. Jerome Kingsbury, New York; aide, Lawrence P. Wynne.
- 3—San Francisco, 1915; pilot, E. S. Cole, St. Louis; aide, R. E. Emerson.
- 4—Uncle Sam; pilot, Paul McCullough, St. Louis; aide, William Trefts.
- 5—Miss Sofia; pilot, William Assman, St. Louis; no aide.
- 6—Aero Club of St. Louis; pilot, John Berry; aide, Albert Von Hoffmann, Jr.
- 7—Kansas City II; pilot, John Watts, Kansas City; aide, W. F. Comstock.
- 8—Pennsylvania; pilot, Arthur Atherholt, Philadelphia; aide, Philip Sharples.
- 9—Goodyear; pilot, R. A. D. Preston, Akron, Ohio; aide, M. D. Tremelin.

Experts say Preston should be the favorite for he drew last place in the start and will be able to crowd more gas into his bag for the sun will be low and its expansive power less late in the day.

A cash prize of $1,000 will be divided by the Aero club among the last four to land.

FIGHT OVER GIRL TWO ARE WOUNDED

NEW YORK, July 11.—A gunmen's quarrel over who should dance with the belle of Greenwich village—identity unknown—on the East Side early today resulted in two men being seriously wounded.

To get funds for the defense of Thomas Burns, in the Tombs for grand larceny, the Robert Kelly association gave a ball.

John C. Borst insisted on dancing with "Greenwich village's belle" and the man who took her to the ball drew his revolver and fired at Borst, who fell with three bullets in him. James H. Oliver attempted to avenge Borst's shooting and dropped with a bullet through his leg. Oliver, with his wife, fled, and the police rushed to the scene.

Although told he was dying, Borst insisted he could not identify his assailant. Later the police picked up Oliver. He admitted being shot by the man who shot Borst, but refused to answer any other questions.

Throw Old Boots Into Sea.

A queer way of disposing of their old boots is followed by the Colombo police. When these "cast offs" have accumulated to a figure bordering round a thousand they are taken down to the police hulk in the harbor and thrown into the sea. Formerly, policemen were allowed to dispose of these, when they became unserviceable, but according to new regulations, they have to return to headquarters all boots when they get worn out.

Tom Moore CIGAR 10¢

LITTLE TOM 5¢

Any cigar dealer will tell you that the mild Tom Moore is a splendidly "married" cigar.

He means that the "feel" and appearance prove the presence of hand workmanship.

The long, clean filler, the binder and the Sumatra wrapper make one of the smoothest drawing cigars you ever introduced to a match.

LA CROSSE GOLFERS IN LAST STAND FOR HIXON CUP

Will La Crosse take the J. M. Hixon cup in the last play of the home and home tournament going on now at the links of the La Crosse Country club?

The La Crosse golfers say yes, and the Madison people say no. Only excellent playing on the part of the La Crosse putters will pull the cup out of the fire for the local club. With a lead of 57 points in the play, the Maple Bluff people feel certain of taking the trophy back to their clubhouse on the banks of Lake Mendota.

La Crosse has one chance to take the cup—if they play today in their usual form. On the local links, the La Crosse golfers have always bested the capital city men and they went out this afternoon determined to repeat the trick. It remains to be seen whether they succeeded or not.

The Madison golfers arrived yesterday and today, making their headquarters at the Stoddard hotel. Early this morning they were out on the links tuning up for the day's play.

Luncheon was served this noon at the club in honor of the Madison people. Dinner will be served this evening at 6:30, and will be followed by a dancing party.

Rightly Proud of His Road.

Two Pullman porters, representing different railroads, met off duty and progressed from friendly gossip to heated argument. Their quarrel centered about which one worked for the better road. Their claims, figures and arguments came fast and furious. At last the tall, thin porter settled the dispute with these classic words: "Go on, niggah; we kills mo' people den you fellahs tote."

PACKEY CHALLENGES WELSH FOR TITLE

Sam's Dilemma.

Sam's friends were reasoning with him patiently at the street corner. "Now, Sam, it's time you went 'ome. That's the best place for you." "It's this way," argued the erring brother. "If I go 'ome now she'll say I'm drunk. 'If I don't go 'ome she'll say I'm drunk. 'That's this 'ere suffragette movement that's set 'em harguing. I've a good mind to go 'ome and break the winders."—London Tit-Bits.

NEAR-NEWS AND CHATTER FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

To the lady first correctly guessing the identity of the person of whom the following is a character sketch, and bringing a copy of this paper to the Tribune office, a cash prize of $1.00 will be given. The subject of the sketch is a prominent citizen of La Crosse. After winning one prize, a contestant will not be eligible to again compete for a period of three months.

He's one of the fellows who went away and made good. Perhaps it isn't fair to spring him now, for it's a long way from Broadway to Fourth and Pearl, but the Cameron House is still here and with that as a starting point a good sleuth—the kind that used to land Jay Wilson in that play where he was the comedy crook—a good sleuth should arrive somewhere. Anyway, he's here now, and if you can't pick him, ask Jim McCauley, who also is here. When at home he's in Court most of the time, but the man who handled the box office receipts for "Peg o' My Heart" can afford to support a few ex-judges. Oh, well; even Jim Hanscome will admit it's a far cry from Zemoore Bros. to "Madame Sherry," but to Gus Rose and the Davidson boys the dark, slender, grayish gentleman who lets an occasional shade of melancholy enhance the charm of his distinguished personality is the same athlete who loaned his presence to the old First National bank and did impossible acrobatic stunts in the skating rink. If you wish to interview him, call on the telephone at The Stoddard at 3 a. m.—he likes it. By the way, had it not been for the dark cloud of adversity which overwhelmed the ex-champion, our hero might still be en tour with big Jim Jeffries and Mr. Moran would never have committed the indiscretion of ignoring the color line. You'll have to hurry if you get him—he'll be Under Cover soon.

When Jos. B. Funke hit upon the idea of using a quartet of comedy policemen to advertise the justice celebrated at Jos. B. Funk candies in the industrial parade, his agent borrowed four old uniforms from Central police station. The feature was one of the funniest in the parade, and when it was over three of the pseudo coppers duly returned their blue suits to Chief John Weber. The fourth did not, nor was he seen for two whole days and nights. Then a night patrolman picked him up, still wearing his uniform blue, his star and helmet. He had dropped into a convenient alley to doze, and in the vernacular of the "force," he was "picketed." "I'm glad you took them duds back," he confided to the chief next morning. "When I had 'em on all I had to do was make the rounds, and every tender in town thought I was a new cop. 'What's yours, pal,' they'd say, the minute I stuck my head in the door. It sure was the way life. Me for the rest cure."

AMERICAN WINS EUROPEAN FLIGHT

Flies from London to Paris and Return Ahead of Six Who Started the Race

LONDON, July 11.—Walter L. Brock, an American, today won the London to Paris and return aeroplane race. Brock was first of the six English, American and French aviators who started, to reach Paris. After a 15 minute rest there he started his return flight. Conditions were far from favorable. There was a heavy fog over the channel. But four of the aviators crossed the channel. From Folkestone, Brock, Lord Carberry, Garros and Renaux continued their flight toward the French shore. The other entrants quit.

Dan Erickson, 827 South Fourth street, an employee of the Paper Box factory was struck by a motorcycle, driven by R. O. Schorch, 131 South Twenty-second street, and is confined to his home. The accident happened about 10 o'clock last night. Mr. Schorch, who is employed at Listman's mill, claims he was going south on Fourth street and that Mr. Erickson started to cross the street. "Just as I saw him and swerved he saw me and jumped back," said Schorch. "The accident could not have been avoided." Schorch was the more seriously injured of the two. He suffered severe lacerations of the scalp and his right arm was skinned from shoulder to hand.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—A resolution directing the War and Navy departments to submit to the house all the papers in the case of Fred L. Boalt, correspondent for the Newspaper Enterprise association, at Vera Cruz, originally ordered deported for publication of the "ley de fuga" story, and directing him to disclose at whose initiative the deportation order was issued and also whether the naval inquiry at Vera Cruz is "censored" was introduced in the house today by Representative Falconer of Washington.

VERA CRUZ, July 11.—Congressional investigation to determine whether American marines shot down and killed unarmed, fleeing Mexicans under the old Mexican "law of flight" during the occupation of Vera Cruz appeared likely today. A great sensation followed quickly upon the opening yesterday of a hearing upon the appeal of Fred L. Boalt, correspondent of the Newspaper Enterprise association, from an order of deportation based upon a story regarding the application of marines of the "ley de fuga."

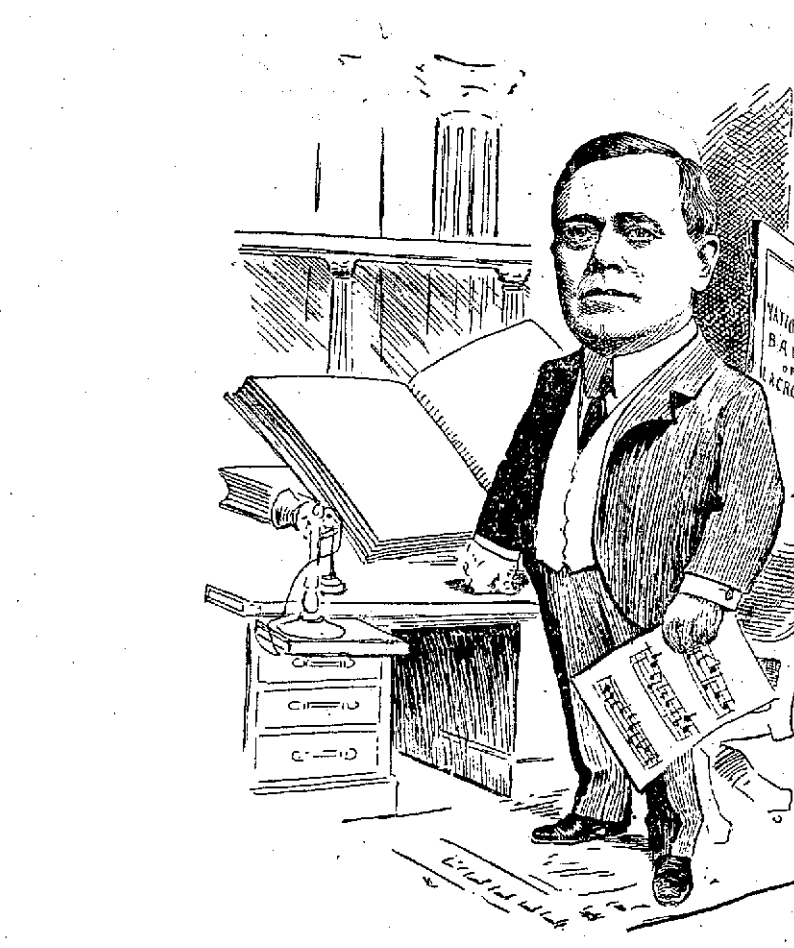

Boalt today said that Ensign William A. Richardson of the battleship Arkansas and other officers had told him that he and his men had fired on unarmed and fleeing Mexicans during the occupation of the city, after telling the Mexicans to run. The hearing on the Texas, while it was originally designed to pass upon the order of deportation against Boalt, has developed into an inquiry into the action of Ensign Richardson. Among the correspondents subpoenaed to testify are William G. Sheppard of the United Press; Kirke Simpson, of the Associated Press; Robert H. Murray of the New York World, and others. Officials of the Army and Navy realize that the point at issue had developed from the question of deporting Boalt to the question of whether American marines killed helpless Mexicans after ordering them to run. The "ley de fuga" is one of the oldest and most notorious customs of the Mexican army. It has been condemned throughout the civilized world. That he had heard naval officials tell of the application of "ley de fuga" to Mexicans during the occupation of this city, was the testimony of William G. Sheppard, staff correspondent of the United Press, today before the naval board of inquiry sitting on the battleship Texas.

In his testimony Sheppard said he had heard stories of the killing of fleeing unarmed Mexicans during the occupation and that these stories had been told by naval officers in his presence. "One story I heard," said Sheppard, "was that Mexicans had been taken prisoners and locked in a house. Then upon a signal, the story went, they were released and were fired upon. It was said that some were killed while fleeing. I later heard in army circles that Ensign Richardson, about whom the story of ley de fuga was told, had suffered from a sunstroke during the battle. I tried to attribute the stories to the effect of the sunstroke."

"Did Ensign Richardson say in your presence that he had killed anybody?" "I heard him say: 'We let a Mexican get within two feet of safety behind a wall and then fired and got him,'" replied Sheppard. "He said that the Mexican was not armed and was not in uniform."

Boalt Not Under Arrest WASHINGTON, July 11.—Correspondent Fred L. Boalt is at liberty in Vera Cruz today and has never been officially under arrest according to a formal report to Secretary of War Garrison today from Brig. Gen. Funston. The report was made in answer to a request for information why Boalt was detained, sent by Mr. Garrison yesterday. The navy department announced today that Admiral Badger, in command of the fleet at Vera Cruz, had appointed a court of inquiry to take up the charges against Ensign William Richardson of the battleship Arkansas, made by Boalt.

HEAT IS BLAMED FOR ACTIONS OF ONALASKA GIRL

Myrtle Furlong Brought to La Crosse After She Created Trouble in Onalaska

GIRL IN COURT TWICE BEFORE Has Been Before Brindley on Serious Charge; to Be Examined for Sanity

LA CROSSE SUFFERS WITH HEAT Weather Bureau Can Offer No Promise of Relief as City Suffers with Heat

Miss Furlong was found insane late this afternoon and will be taken to Mendota at once. She was examined by Drs. Bannan and Egan.

Onalaska was startled last night by the appearance on the streets of a young woman very lightly clad, who was screaming and shouting at the top of her voice. Excessive heat is thought to have been partially responsible for her condition. The girl was Miss Myrtle Furlong, 22 years old, and a niece of Theodore Gears, of Green's Coulee. She rushed into the crowd at the Crystal theater and was with great difficulty that she was overpowered. The town marshal, Luke Rand, was unable to manage the girl alone and called two or three citizens to his assistance.

The sheriff in La Crosse was notified and Deputy Ritter went to Onalaska after the young woman. He found her clad in only a single garment and will have her examined for her sanity. An effort to find more clothing at the home of the uncle failed. The girl has been in the county court twice before on charges of a serious nature.

The temperature in La Crosse and this vicinity has been unusually high for the past two days. The high mark registered yesterday was 88, but the heat was hard to stand, because of the moisture in the atmosphere. It is expected that the mark today will be considerably higher than 88.

The nights have also been unusually warm, and few have been able to find relief. Relief in Water Scores flock to the river every afternoon and the crowd has been close to a hundred every day this week. Motor row boats and canoes have dotted the river in the evening. Contractors and all employers who have men working out of doors are using care to see that none are overcome by the heat. In some cases it has been necessary to suspend work entirely. The weather bureau can make no promises for relief. "No decided change in temperature" is the bulletin.

BLAME STORSTAD FOR BIG DISASTER

Collision Which Cost 1,032 Lives Blamed on Officer of Norwegian Collier

PRaise KENDALL'S SEAMANSHIP He Is Censured, However, for Failing to Give Wider Birth to Coming Ship

QUEBEC, Que., July 11.—The steamer Storstad was held at fault in the findings reported today following the investigation into the sinking of the steamship Empress of Ireland on the morning of May 29 when 1,032 lost their lives. The Empress of Ireland was rammed by the Storstad and sank almost immediately. The commission report found responsibility divided on some points.

Approve Kendall The board of inquiry in its report submitted by Lord Jersey today found that the Storstad ported her helm and thus brought about the collision. The opinion is expressed that Captain Kendall's action in stopping his ship was good seamanship, but the suggestion is made that his failure to give a wider berth formed a contributory cause of the collision.

Testifies, chief officer of the Storstad, was held mainly at fault for the report stating he was "wrong and neglected altering his course" and that he was to blame for not calling the captain. Of the many recent sea disasters and accidents the sinking of the Empress of Ireland was most appalling in loss of life and suddenness since the Titanic crashed into an ice berg and sank with 1,430 passengers and crew April 14, 1912. It was less than 15 minutes after the prow of the Storstad ripped into the side of the big passenger ship that the latter went under. There were 1,387 souls—passengers and crew—aboard the Empress. Of this company 355 were saved.

Stories Conflict The commissioners declare the stories told by witnesses aboard the Empress of Ireland and those on the Storstad are irreconcilable. The witnesses from the Storstad, the report points out, said they were approaching so as to pass "red" to the left of the Empress. Witnesses from the latter ship said they were approaching so as to pass "green," or to the right. Considering the different stories told the commissioners declared: "We have therefore thought it advisable to adjust our conclusion almost entirely upon other events spoken of by the witnesses and upon their probable sequence in order to arrive at a solution so difficult."

USE SAME ENERGY FOR FREE BRIDGE AS FOR FESTIVALS

Minnesota Farmer Praises the City on Home-coming but Points to the Bridge

IS ONE THING THE CITY LACKS La Crosse Doing More for the Community Than Any Other Town, Is Statement

SHOWS WHAT THE BRIDGE COSTS For Farmers Coming to the City Four Times a Week Annual Tax Is Fifty-two Dollars

Henry Radtke, a farmer living near La Crosse, has sent The Tribune a letter, praising the business men and merchants for the Fourth of July festival and at the same time making an appeal for a free bridge. Mr. Radtke says that if La Crosse citizens would work as hard for a free bridge as they did for the success of the Home-Coming week the toll would be removed and very soon at that. La Crosse, now, is doing more for the surrounding community than any other town or city, according to the writer, but the free bridge is one thing lacking.

His Letter His letter, addressed to the editor of The Tribune, follows: Editor of The La Crosse Tribune, La Crosse, Wis. Dear Sir: Having attended the week-end celebration of the grand Home-Coming in La Crosse, allow me through the columns of your valuable paper to thank the officers, merchants and others of the city of La Crosse for the great sacrifice they made in spending their money, time and energy to accomplish what I believe was the greatest celebration ever held in the city of La Crosse.

Thanks From Minnesota Allow me to thank you each and every one in behalf of the citizens of Minnesota, for I feel that your efforts were, in a measure, the means of bringing us nearer to you as friends and patrons. Best of Order It speaks well for our "Home City" that there was the very best of order in everything connected with this grand Home-Coming and celebration. I am proud of the city of La Crosse! It was a delight to see the peace and quiet and good behavior in the largest gathering ever held in the city.

Doing Much, But— The parade was far beyond my expectation and I was delighted with every feature of it. La Crosse has done more, and is still doing for its surrounding community than any other city or town that I know of. And yet, my dear aldermen, merchants, business men

RE-REFER IMPORTANT MEASURES

Purchasing Committee to Be Fought Over as Will Proposed "Near Stop" Rule; Autos to Wait

WISCONSIN HOUSE GETS LICENSE

Wehrer Was Refused, but Oscar Gschwind Gets Coveted Permit from City "Dads"

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID

Elected Arthur Schulze as successor to his father, the late Ald. Robert Schulze of the Fifth ward. Granted Oscar Gschwind a license to run the Fred Wehrer saloon at the Wisconsin House. Passed ordinance compelling autos to wait while street cars take on or discharge passengers. Referred ordinance creating purchasing committee. Re-referred ordinance providing for near corner stops by street cars. Authorized mayor to name committee to attend convention Wisconsin League of Municipalities at Madison, committee members to serve without salary. Decided to hold but one meeting a month.

With three votes to spare Arthur Schulze was last night elected Alderman from the Fifth ward to fill the vacancy caused by the death of his father, Robert Schulze. Otto Granke, former alderman from the ward and the man who was defeated by but a few votes at the last municipal election, was the other candidate and succeeded in mustering eight votes.

Those voting for Schulze were Aldermen Beddesen, Grover, Kemper, Kohn, Neumann, Roelling, E. O. Schulze, Smith, Strauss, Torrance and Worth. Those favoring Granke were Bartl, Collins, Houska, Kroeber, Mahoney, Roth, Rybold and Schaeberger. The seat of the late Alderman Schulze was draped in mourning and a bunch of white carnations reposed on the desk.

Row Over Street A near sensation was caused when Mayor Ori J. Sorensen last night took the floor and accused the members of the board of public works of having failed to compel the contractors, who put in the two blocks of paving on Sixth street from Main to Cass, to follow specifications. He charged that the work was not done properly, that the street is in poor condition and that property owners there are complaining.

Falk Denies Charge When appealed to City Engineer George P. Bradish agreed with the mayor and said that the specifications as drawn by him had not been followed. On the heels of this George Falk, member of the board, declared emphatically that the specifications had been followed to the letter and that the street will be one of the finest in the city.

After a symposium on streets, in which practically all of the council participated, the matter was referred to the special street improvement committee. The city of La Crosse, it was proposed, should purchase five copies of the 1914 Wisconsin statutes. Ald. Mahoney dissented maintaining that five copies of the law are unnecessary. The resolution was referred.

Gets Saloon License The council approved the granting of a license to the La Crosse Theater providing that institution will comply with certain orders of the theater commission. Without a dissenting vote, Oscar Gschwind was last night granted a license to run the Fred Wehrer Wisconsin House saloon. Gschwind is the man who put in an application when it became apparent that the council would not grant a permit to the proprietor of the Wisconsin House.

Wehrer was refused a license because the saloon has been, say the police, a place of hanging out place of toughs and the breeding place of drunks.

The Booth Fisheries company was granted a permit to erect a fish warehouse at Second and Cameron avenue.

To License Carnivals If an ordinance introduced last night by Ald. C. A. Worth passes, all carnivals and other attractions will be licensed here. The Interstate Fair association is exempted. Almost immediately after the first reading of the ordinance Ald. Mahoney

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

FROM BACK HOME

By LAURA KIRKMAN

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Fay Trenton, show girl, let herself into the little flat which she and her brother rented jointly, the first thing her eyes fell on was a note addressed to herself. She snatched up the thing and tore it open with nervous fingers. Henry was such an unknown quantity! He was quite capable of committing any folly in the weeks that she had been on tour.

Her nervousness was justified. "Dear kiddie," ran the note, "I got married yesterday. Back Thursday. Also I've signed with Hitchcock for a month of vaudeville. Isn't that great?"

That was all. No mention of the sort of girl he had married. No hint as to whether either of them had ever seen her before.

"Suppose she isn't our kind!" was Fay's first ejaculation as she sank into a chair beside the hatrack. "But of course she must be; he wouldn't be so silly as to marry a girl who'd be shocked at our ways. It must be one of the bunch."

The next question was: Which one of the bunch? Mazie Dale, Zoe Tribby, Hester Flower?

"The quickest way to find out is to go right to the telephone and call up those girls and ask them if they've married my brother," she decided, picking up her suitcase and starting for the back room.

But it was not necessary to go to the telephone to find out that it was not one of these girls. Indeed, as she reached the living rooms she knew that it was no one of the "bunch" that Harry had married: it was a sweet, simple country girl!

This she knew from the changed appearance of the rooms. There, hanging on the wall before her, was a framed motto reading "God Bless Our Home." Here before her on the floor, was a hand-woven rug. On the table beside her lay an open family album.

Fay Trenton sank into a chair and dropped her head in her hands. From the suddenness of it all her shoulders shook for a moment. It was so like the dear old days of long ago—those days when she was a sweet, innocent country girl herself, and knew not that there was wickedness in the world.

"Oh, mother, dear," she whispered "if you'd lived I'd have been a different Fay!"

Then she brushed the tears from her eyes and began to speculate as to what would happen when the bunch came. How many of them would look with reverence on the simple, sincere things that the little country bride had brought with her?

"And they're coming back Thursday!" she remembered. "Goodness! I must get the bunch all here and make 'em see that this change is no joke. I must get 'em here before they come home. Loyal old Harry, to put up her pretty, simple things—in this atmosphere!"

In spite of her fear that her new sister-in-law's feelings would be hurt unless steps were taken quickly, she flew about the little rooms with a singing heart. Henry had a wife who would adore him! He would be happy for life! No fickle theatrical girl had Henry's happiness in her hands.

With a smile that seemed to say, "The darling!" she bent over the open album. There staring up at her was the picture of a long-bearded old man. Across the page was an unmistakable picture of a bride couple—the man sitting—the woman standing stiffly behind her chair.

"I declare," she cried, as she turned the page and found an almost identically posed picture of Henry and his new little wife.

Nature's Armor.

Lobsters and crabs are familiar examples of armor bearing creatures.

The lobsters have wonderful coats of mail suggestive of those devised by human warriors in the age of chivalry.

They combine, perfect security with ease of movement, owing to their jointed structure. The manner in which crabs when at rest tuck their legs beneath them so as to bring them under the shelter of the hard carapace is interesting. The crab is doubly protected, for it resembles a water worn pebble, and thus looks to large fishes, which like to eat the crustacean—so long as it keeps still—very similar to the objects with which it is surrounded.

It is seldom that a man looks as handsome as his photograph. And it is much the same way with mail order furniture.

Daddy's Bedtime

Bad Dreams Story — That Happen Under Bedclothes.

DADDY had always told both Jack and Evelyn that they must never put the sheets or blankets over their heads after they went to bed, for it was very dangerous, and they might get suffocated in their sleep that way.

He had heard a story about a little child who really did have a pretty bad time of it once just because she had the habit of covering up her head after she went to bed and then falling asleep that way.

"You know, children, I have always told you how dangerous I thought it was to cover up your heads in bed?" said daddy.

"Yes," both the children quickly replied.

"Well," continued he, "today I was told a story which I certainly must tell to you."

"There was once a little girl who used to cover her head when she went to bed. Her daddy had often told her that he thought it was very dangerous and that people could get into the habit of doing it."

"She used to do it a great deal, but after she got to sleep at night her daddy would always pull the sheets off her head."

"One night, though, after her daddy had left the room, she pulled the sheets over her head."

"And then came the dreams. Oh, such dreams as they were! Awful creatures came to her, shook their fists and told her what a bad little girl she was. She was so frightened, and she felt as if she had been glued to something and could not run away from the awful creatures."

"Then the creatures began playing ball with her, and she could hardly catch her breath, they seemed to be throwing her so very, very quickly."

"Oh, it got to be really dreadful! The awful creatures did just as they wanted with her. They played ball with her, and she always seemed to be underneath, having all the breath knocked out of her body and panting for breath without being able to help herself, when suddenly a lovely cool fairy seemed to come and take all these awful creatures off and to leave her in peace."

"She was very, very tired from her wretched time, but once more she felt like a little girl instead of a hunted, tortured sort of animal."

"The next morning she told her daddy of what had happened. She assured him, too, that she would never again pull the sheets over her head, for she had never had such a dreadful night in all her life. And, too, the fairies were not always around. They might be having a party any night, for fairies must play sometimes, although they do so much good too."

I, Frank H. Burgess, business manager of The La Crosse Tribune, do solemnly swear that the actual number of copies of the paper named, printed and circulated during the month of June, 1914, was as above stated.Subscribed and sworn to before me this first day of July, 1914.A. E. BLECKMAN, Notary Public.AGAIN THEY POINT TO WISCONSINAgain the index finger of the teacher points to Wisconsin. We quote an editorial from Collier's Weekly:Now comes the committee on Franchises of the National Municipal league pointing out that public utilities—i. e., street railways, telephones and electric and gas plants—are primarily urban in character, and that, on general principles, the control of public functions should be localized as much as possible, in order to secure the interest and effective co-operation of citizens.This is the darkening of counsel that we must apparently expect from our "experts." The solid instances of successful utility regulation in this country are afforded by the work of commissions organized and supported by the state governments—e. g., the railroad commission of Wisconsin. To handle these matters by city action separately is merely to pile up confusion and multiply interminable lawsuits. This is the one fundamental exception to the administrative and necessary doctrine of home rule for our cities. These means of transportation and communication must be used so as to better living conditions over the widest possible areas. We must broaden the basis of our community life. The report quoted above was put out by a group of city men only. It is time we heard from the other side.No doubt Mr. Philipp will resent this as "outside interference" with his campaign of destruction. Also, it should be of interest to those Wis-consin democrats who have contended that the commission control should be changed so that each city would have its own public utility commission. Collier's argument for the state commission is hard to meet. We are glad to note that the editor expressly denies any motion of hostility to the general principles of the home rule, which is sound and democratic.INVITE DR. EVANS TO SPEND MONTH HEREWhen "Dr." Evans, Chicago Tribune health expert, finishes with the mosquitoes at Ravina Park, on the north shore of Lake Michigan, he is very urgently requested to come to La Crosse and repeat the treatment.
The physician says he is going to kill every mosquito in Chicago and surrounding country.La Crosse people who go over to Petitbone park in the evening should carry mouse traps with them. The mosquitoes are unusually healthy this year and the crop has been large.Success to "Dr." Evans in his work! But we sincerely hope that he will not keep his secret to himself. Any man who can take the mosquitoes from La Crosse and vicinity could have pretty near everything he wanted for his trouble. Bring forward the "Pied Piper."RACINE CALL PAYS TRIBUTE TO MORRISDeclaring that Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris will have a distinct advantage over Governor Mc-Govern in the race for the senate because the governor "belongs to a coterie of politicians at Madison whose desire to retain control is paramount to their sense of duty to the public," the Racine Daily Call says:McGovern is blamed and to a great extent justly, for practically all of the trouble which has cropped out in the administration of state affairs.
He is criticised for his flattery with the bull moosers and for the distressing Ekern mixup and lastly for his flat turn down of the proposition to reconsider the last tax levy with a view of lightening the burden which excessive appropriations have imposed on the people of the state. Above all he is credited with putting personal ambition above his public duty and he is justly and rightly criticised as operating to his great disad-vantage.Morris on the other hand has peculiarly entrenched himself in the confidence of the people. His record in various public capacities has always indicated a deep realization of duty and strict adherence thereto and personal welfare has been subordinated to the public good.These are the things of which the people are talking and which are going to cut a wide swath in the campaign.The "Call," while comparatively a new paper in Racine, has pursued a course of devotion to the general welfare of that community which has given it a strong lead over its older competitors in the matter of popularity and influence. It speaks as an interpretation of the best thought of its community. The candidates it selects will have to be progressive and fearless; if they prove their worth, they will have able and fearless support.

REVEAL SECRETS—HELD.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—
Charging that they had divulged secrets regarding the fortifications of the Panama canal, United States Commissioner Krull yesterday issued warrants for the arrest of C.
K. Field, editor of the Sunset Magazine; Aviator Robert Fowler, R. A.
Dunham, a photographer, and Riley
A. Scott, a writer. It is charged that Dunham took photographs from an aeroplane operated by Fowler and that Scott wrote an article published in the Sunset Magazine under the title, "Can the Panama Canal Be Destroyed from the Air?" It is understood that Attorney General Mc-Reynolds ordered the arrests.

Advice

(What to do in hot weather)
When the weather man gets started on the warm and muggy track, Keep cool.When the perspiration's streamin'
down the middle of your back, Keep cool.When the asphalt pavement's warping as it never warped before,
When the wax girls are all melting in the window of the store,
When you're practically crazed and your life seems but a bore, Keep cool.When the butter on the table must be dished up with a spoon,
Keep cool.When your daschund gets the rabies
and goes crazy as a loon, Keep cool.When there's not a breath of ozone and no sort of vagrant breeze,
When the leaves are hanging silent and dejected on the trees,
And there's not sufficient atmosphere
to furnish one good sneeze, Keep cool.When your bedroom is as torrid as old Dante's famous dream, Keep cool.When the solder in the water tank is melting at each seam,
Keep cool.Do not fall to keep your temper.
Don't get exercised or fussed.
When your union suit is clinging and your throat is full of dust,
It will be a whole lot better, so compose yourself and just Keep cool.

A Class Reunion Hero

Hartford Courant: The man who won the long-distance cup at the Yale 1904 class reunion this year, which a number of Hartford alumni attended, traveled all the way from Java, where he represented the Standard Oil company. In thanking his classmates for the cup which a 1904 man won at a class reunion a few years ago, by traveling "from heaven to earth," and he said that the changes in temperature through which he had passed led him to think that he had excelled this previous record, only that he had come from the other direction."What was that heaven to earth record?" said one of the fellows who had not been back to a reunion for many years."Don't you know that?" said the others. "That was when W—broke off his honeymoon trip in order to come back to the reunion."

I took this as a civility, and quite believing him candid in his speech, and he must have read the doubt in my glance, for he continued:"Nay, I mean neither more nor less than I say; I owe you much, for you have brought hope and purpose into my life, of which I here give you a full acknowledgment.""God send you quickly reach London," I said, for I was thinking of my darling, and he Maxwell's. It was nigh maddening to me when I let my mind run in that direction."What would you have me say to her, Farraday?" he asked, turning to me."That I pray God she is well," I made answer."Tush, Farraday," he broke in, with the shadow of a smile on his bearded lips. "You mean you pray God she be not wed to Nevil Maxwell.""I pray that, too," I muttered hoarsely, for his speech stung like a lash."If she is her mother's daughter her hand will never go to him who has not already won her heart, let Maxwell storm and bully as he chooses; you may take that sop of comfort, Master Farraday," and he gave me a grim smile."That I know, too," I said, and I had every reason for believing this, for I would have declared my very life depended on it."Well, and what shall I say to her coming from you," he asked, after a moody silence."That never for one moment have I ceased to think of her.""Is that all?" he questioned drily.
"And that the thought of her has added a thousand-fold to the sorrow and the joy of my life here.""So it must, Farraday; there has been the one experience we have had in common." And he looked at me with kinder eyes, I thought. He fell to staring into the red embers on the hearth, then he said: "I shall not put one word in your way, Farraday; this is for her to decide. I have naught to do with it. Does that give you good content?""Yes, for I have never known where to have you," I cried.He laughed shortly, but as I thought, not without a certain weary bitterness to his brief mirth."Do you think it a light matter that I have been ready to lose her?
I sent one of my own.""You did?" the father said, "and what did you say?""Oh," the lad replied, "I just out something about not minding

He quitted his stool.

"Must you go so soon?" I asked for it came upon me with a kind of a shock that I had said nothing of what lay nearest my heart."It is nearing mid-night, I dare-him to the shore.It was long past the early ber-time we of James Town kept, for no gleam of light came from the huddle of huts. In silence we went from the fort and presently gained the shore, where two sailors with one of the ship's boats were waiting Marshall's coming."God keep you, Farraday!" said Marshall as he took my hand.And as well as the lump that had quickly come would allow, I wished him a safe and speedy voyage. Then he stepped into the boat and thesailors pushed off from the shore.

But I stood on the sands a long time after I had ceased to hear the splash of oars.

GIRL "BUMS" AS BOY

DENVER, Col., July 11.—Ruth Myers, a pretty 18 year old Chicago girl, sat in the matron's office at the city jail today and told of her experience while masquerading as a man. For two months she has mingled with men, toiled with them, beaten her way about the country on passenger trains, begged nickels on the streets and acted generally as a "hobo." And not until last night was her deception detected. Her only reason for masquerading, she said, was that she "always wanted to be a boy."

West of Chicago Will Be

CHICAGO, July 11.—Conferees of the heads of the railroad unions and a count of the strike vote of the locomotive firemen and engine-men were continued here today to clear the way for the delivery July 14 of the ultimatum of the organizations to the railroads. It is certain, the union men declare, that on that date the sixty-seven trunk lines west of Chicago will be notified that unless they reduce the working day from ten to eight hours, a general strike will be ordered.

Forecasts of the vote are that more than ninety per cent favor a strike. Eighty thousand operative employees of the road are involved. Railway managers do not take the situation as seriously as labor unions say it is.

VESSEL AGROUND
PASSENGERS SAFE

HALIFAX, N. S., July 11.—Wireless messages received here today said that the steamer Ivermore was hard and fast aground on rocks at Brig Harbor Point, the entrance to Indian Harbor on the Labrador coast, but that all the passengers had been safely landed. Wireless messages received here shortly before noon from Captain Kean of the Ivermore, that his ship was driven ashore while he attempted to avoid heavy ice floes off Brig Harbor Point.

Something Worth Trying.
Anybody who has ever tried, for five minutes, a big motive, ever tried working a little happiness for other people into what he is doing for himself, for instance, if he stopped to think about it and how it worked and how happy it made him himself, would never do anything in any other way all his life. It is the big motives that are efficient.—Crowds.

FAMILIARITY WITH NUDE URGED AS MORAL MEASURE

ANN ARBOR, Mich., July 15.—Children of both sexes and adults as well should bathe and dress together freely, frankly, openly and without prudish apology.

This statement made by Miss Jessie Phelps, professor of psychology in the Michigan state normal college, Ypsilanti, in the closing lecture of a "good health week" series here was the cause of wide discussion today in Ann Arbor. Miss Phelps urged open study of the nude, both for adults and children, as a corrective for present day immorality.

Miss Phelps said that the true story of sex should be told to children before they have reached their fifth year and she urged that they be made familiar with the nude of each sex.

BIG DIAMOND WAR IS ON TOMORROW

The Nelsons vs. the Clothiers.

Such will be the shout of the umpire at the opening of the game tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock before the crowd of fans at League park. La Crosse baseball fans will have one of the treats of the year, when the leaders of both sides of the city hook up.

For the Clothiers, Weigel and Copsey are the choice for the hurling job, while for the Nelsons the invincible "Chalky" Jim Squiers will assume the mound. It will be master against master.

In case of a victory for either team, the winner will be the one with luck in the "breaks," for both teams are so evenly matched in playing ability and baseball strategy that the outcome is a toss up.

VIROQUA MAN NEW STATE CANDIDATE

MADISON, Wis., July 11.—J. Henry Bennett of Viroqua on Friday filed his nominating paper in the office of the secretary of state as a candidate for republican nomination for state senator in the Thirty-first district. His papers contained 657 names, being three times as many as required by law. Mr. Bennett also filed his statement claiming that he had spent $27.25 for campaign purposes to July 8. Congressman J. J. Each of La Crosse, candidate for republican nomination for congressman in the Seventh district to succeed himself, filed a statement declaring that he spent $29.10 for campaign purposes.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Thickness and Lustre at Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss. While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. For sale and recommended by O. T. Ehrhart.

BOY SCOUTS TAKE MANY LONG HIKES

Lansing Organization Is a Live One; Mrs. Bensch Celebrates Birthday with Friends

LANSING, Iowa, July 11.—The Boy Scouts, fifteen in number, hiked to the north of Mount Hosmer on Thursday, and the adjacent country, covering at least ten miles in the course of their travels. A large rattler went down to death at the hands of the company, and they proudly detached the rattles. The snake had seven rattles and a button, and the matter was taken up by proper authority to have the boys realize the bounty on same. Friday a hike to the Trout pond was accomplished, and the usual camp tactics carried out. The tramps taken by the Scouts are carefully arranged, and so much pleasure and healthful instruction are being derived, that outsiders are joining the ranks almost daily. Despite the intense heat prevailing, interest in the proposed hikes continues to grow, instead of abating.

Celebrates Birthday.
Mrs. Edward Bensch celebrated her fifty-fourth birthday Thursday afternoon, a company of ladies assisting in the festivities. Cards, fancy work and a general social time was enjoyed by all participants, a dainty luncheon supplementing the entertainment afforded. Many remembrances of the occasion were left as mementoes of the guests' kindly regard for their hostess.
Hon. A. M. Follows and Mrs. Follows entertained at a six o'clock dinner Wednesday evening, the guests of honor being Rev. Crowder and wife of Cedar Rapids. Rev. Frank Pease and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Albert, Rev. Nofke, and Rev. and Mrs. Crowder comprised the company.

At Harpers Ferry.
The Catholic Lady Foresters of Harpers Ferry will this year entertain the courts of the county. July 15 is the date set for the picnic, and a splendid attendance is expected. Lansing court will attend in a body, and large delegations from other lodges have signified their intention of being present. The high chief ranger of Chicago will, if possible, enliven the gathering with her presence.

To Summer Camp.
The Continental Benevolent Order will take a launch trip to Hoytman Sunday, as guests of the George Roeder family, at their summer camp. Well filled hampers will accompany the crowd, which promises to be large.

Continue the Work.
And still the city continues with its good work. The Third street gutter will not end at the Presbyterian church, but go right on up the hill, where the rush of water always commences. Mayor Conway and the public spirited citizens who have so ably supported this enterprise, even against strong objection, are certainly in line for more common congratulations.

To Fight Rats.
Bubonic plague, the sound of which sends every tremor of horror to pass over one, has been discovered in New Orleans, and the infection is claimed to have been disseminated by rats. Now comes the cry nation wide to exterminate the rodents, especially those states along the Mississippi river. Iowa, never behind in taking up a good cause, has especially brought the matter before the boards of health, and the rat population will doubtless diminish materially in a very short period of time. Lansing has altogether too many of these pests, especially since the phenomenal rise of the river, which has driven them into the town. It would be a very wise plan to set a few traps, or lay the inducements out with a dose of poison, and then consign the remains to a bon fire.

Church Notices.
Rev. G. L. Hexmeyer will read two masses at Immaculate Conception Catholic church, Sunday morning. First mass at eight a. m. High mass at ten a. m. Vespers and benediction will be chanted at 7:15 p. m.
Rev. Frank Pease of the First Presbyterian church will preach at 10:30 a. m. Sunday school at the noon hour, Christian Endeavor, 6:45 p. m. Preaching service, union in character, will take place at 7:30. Rev. Arthur Young, the speaker of the evening. Special music has been provided for the occasion, and a large attendance is especially desired.
Methodist Episcopal, Rev. Kofke, pastor. Services at the usual hour Sunday morning, Sunday school at 11:30. Epworth League at 6:45 p. m. The congregation will meet with other churches at the Union services at the First Presbyterian church at the regular preaching hour in the evening.

PROPOSED MARKET CALLED VISIONARY BY HOKAH EDITOR

Houston County Chief Has

About La Crosse and

If They "Bite" on This Scheme Is the Statement in Very Warm
Editorial

DUBUQUE PLAN RECEIVES PRAISE

La Crosse Would Do Well
to Copy After the Iowa City Is Statement
by Editor

The Houston County Chief, published at Hokah, Minn., has a few things to say this week about La Crosse and a public market. H. B. Wheaton, who is the editor of the paper, fires several charges of buckshot at the Bentley plan in an editorial under the heading "La Crosse in Travail." He says the Chief has a right to criticize because it represents a large portion of the people who will be affected by the outcome of the struggle here for a market.

The Chief favors the Dubuque plan and claims it has been successful and that it would succeed in La Crosse. The editor winds up by saying that La Crosse business men will be "chumps" if they bite on this visionary scheme. A part of his article follows:

"La Crosse wants a public market, but doesn't know how to get one, and is too proud to pattern after cities that have a market and are making a success of it."

"The Chief criticizes the city of La Crosse in this matter and claims its right to do so, inasmuch as it represents a large portion of the people who will be affected by the outcome of the struggle which is going on now to give birth to the new department."

"Dubuque has a market, known from ocean to ocean—one whose merits have been advertised and planned has been patterned after by people of many other cities with great profit."

"There is no hawking on the streets, and there is an ordinance preventing grocers from buying produce from the farmers before 9 a. m. There is a market master, who has charge of the place to see that each farmer gets his proper stall and to do weighing, etc., and preserve order. After 9 o'clock the grocers come to the market to buy."

"How much more simple this plan is than the La Crosse plan may be judged by noting that the people buy direct from the farmers and the city is under no obligation to 'take everything the farmers bring in,' as some of the visionary promoters of the La Crosse plan are setting forth."

"Moreover, the La Crosse system gives no chance to the people to put in a good man for market master, but ties the thing up to the promoter of the scheme. It is a cumbersome system, and unbusinesslike affair and its operation would put the city in debt and cause a disaffection among the farmers, which are all avoided by the more simple Dubuque method."

HEART FAILURE KILLS L. WILLING

Louis Willing, brother of John E. Willing, Jr., well known La Crosse clothier, died this morning at three o'clock at the home of his father, John E. Willing, 648 South Ninth street, of heart failure, after an illness extending over several years.

Willing of La Crosse; two brothers, John E. Willing, Jr., of La Crosse, and Edward Willing of New York, and two sisters, Mrs. C. A. Braley of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. E. F. Caldwell of Oklahoma.

COON PROBLEM IS FOR THE FUTURE

North La Crosse Woman
Who Has Followed Case
Urges Public to Deal
Generously With It

"KIND, PATIENT AND LOYAL"

That Is What She Says of
Woman Whom Officials Called Wasteful and
Incompetent

The following letter is from a prominent North La Crosse woman who has shown a kindly interest in the Coon family. It forcibly sets forth the fact that the problem is not a temporary one. Note its sympathetic and comprehending attitude toward the poor mother, herself an invalid, in contrast with the talk of the wastefulness and incompetence on the part of the officials.

Certainly everyone's sympathy has been quickened in behalf of Mrs. Coon and her family of six little children, who this week lost their husband and father, and find themselves wholly unprepared to meet the forth-coming battles of life.

The county, the Associated Charities, kind friends and neighbors have been standing by the mother loyally at the present time but there are many days and years to come before the children of the family will be sufficiently raised to care for themselves. The mother who has been kind, and patient and loyal in her family, being in very delicate health at the present time, is not able to do any wage earning work nor can she be expected to do any for years to come, if she is to do her duty to her family. The relatives who are willing to do all that they can are so situated financially and having limited earning capacities can do little to relieve the situation.

Therefore, let the mothers, the Christians and the good citizens of La Crosse stand by this home and mother in her sorrow and perplexities in a way that will actually solve problems. The funds at the disposal of the poor commissioner and of the Associated Charities are always very limited and have to be dispensed with great care to provide for the most actual necessities of the usual and emergency cases of want in the city. There are hundreds of homes and persons in La Crosse who can spare a dollar or more to help fortify this home against want and worry, and they should be glad to do it, especially when the mother is so deserving of love and care and kindness, as at the present time.

Contributions for this family if sent or taken or telephoned to Miss Lee, secretary of the Associated Charities at the county court house would be well and wisely cared for and made to do the greatest service over the longest period of time possible.

If our amount must be small let that not deter us in our giving but whatever we do let us get under the burden. The citizens of La Crosse pride themselves on their get-together spirit and it can be made to do no better service than in behalf of a mother and little children.

USE SAME ENERGY FOR FREE BRIDGE AS FOR FESTIVALS

and citizens, I must still say, "One thing thou lackest."

Give us a free bridge and God will bless you and you will prosper as never before.

Would Get Trade
Farmers and trades people from the surrounding country for miles and miles around will patronize your city who are now trading at the smaller town or sending to the mail order houses.

I know many of you have been working hard to secure a free bridge for us, but some are working just as hard against. If those who are against a free bridge could only realize what a very small difference it would make in their taxes and how much more of the Minnesota trade they would get, there would be less opposition to it. We are taxed 25 cents every time we cross the bridge into the city and if we cross it four times a week, (and many cross it much oftener) our tax amounts to $2 per year, which is quite a high tax for one farmer to pay for the use of the bridge, whereas the extra tax on a citizen of La Crosse on an average, would not amount to that many cents. Is this not so, Mr. Taxpayer?

Get Together Again
If you will all become ONE in heart, body and mind for a free bridge, as you so loyally did for the Home-Coming and Fourth of July celebration, there is not a doubt in my mind but that we would have a free bridge very soon.

Near council and citizens of La Crosse:

Please consider this question and take action upon it as soon as convenient. With the kindest regards for our dear old La Crosse and with high hopes for a free bridge in the near future. I am,

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) HENRY RADTKE,

DAVIDSON BOYS IN GOLDEN WEST

"Pate" Secretary of Hood River Commercial Club
and Apple, Land and Orchard Co.

FRUIT HAS MADE RICH CITY

From Lumber to Apples La
Crosse Boys Have Gone
with Zest that Marks
Sturdy Pioneer

This story is for those privileged people who have breakfasted amply upon a half dozen Hood river strawberries that crimsoned the blushing cream with each succulent slice cut to the measure of a breakfast spoon, or have buried eager teeth in the inviting red cheek of a Hood River apple.

It comes to mind now because La Crosse friends have been enjoying the privilege of a home-coming visit with Mrs. P. S. Davidson, well known and well beloved in the Gateway city since the sturdy lumbering days when the Davidsons, father and sons, made history in the big saw mill and with the great towing fleet that were the backbone of La Crosse industry.

Commercial Secretary
Today P. S. (Pate) Davidson, the eldest son, is secretary of the Commercial Club of Hood River, Oregon, the organization that works for the improvement of that greatest of fruit producing centers, which last year marketed more than $1,000,000 worth of the most luscious fruit the world has ever known.

A Thriving City
When the lumber business began to "peter out" here, the Davidsons went west. Hood River then was a rural village. Today it has a water plant capable of producing 100,000 H. P., two fine hotels, a large vinegar factory, machine shops, wagon works, and other factories, a splendid mercantile district and a commercial club of more than 300 working members.

Fortune is Theirs
The Davidsons have grown up with the community, enjoying a pioneer's share in the expanding prosperity. It is easy to see them work there as they worked here, earnestly and courageously while at it, ready for the youth-holding hour of recreation when work is done. Occasionally we remember them, when John C. Burns has the good fortune to secure for us a choice consignment of the "Fancy Spitzenburgs" of the Hood River "Apple, Land and Orchard Company."

CARRANXA WILL REFUSE TO TREAT

Is Now Drafting His Official Refusal to Meet
the Huerta Delegates

WILL SOON BE IN MEXICO CITY

Carranza Has Been Warned
Foreigners Must Be
Respected when
Capital Is Taken

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Until Carranza's definite refusal to discuss a provisional government with Huertistas delegates reaches here, the A. B. C. Meritators will decline to discuss its effects on the general mediation plan. Word has been received that Carranza is preparing it and that it will be in the hands of the mediators Monday or Tuesday.

No Troops to Capital
The question of protection of foreigners in Mexico City when the capital is assaulted by the constitutionalists has been settled so far as this government is concerned. No American troops will be sent there. The foreign colony, under the direction of the marines of Germany, France and England, now there, is well armed and equipped. It is believed that it can protect itself if necessary.

Urgent representations have been made to Carranza through Consul Silman that there must be no anti-foreign outrages. It is believed that Huerta will flee on the approach of the constitutionalists columns and that the latter will immediately post guards in the foreign quarter.

The armies of Villa, Obregon and Gonzalez will concentrate for the march on the capital within the next few days making available a force of 50,000 to oppose Huerta's army of far less than half the number. The fall of Huerta is now considered certain.

Guaymas Surrenders
JUAREZ, Mexico, July 11.—The majority of the troops of the federal garrison at Guaymas, on the west coast of Mexico surrendered during the night to constitutionalists under Gen. Salvador Alvarado, according to dispatches received today from Alvarado at constitutionalist headquarters. Final arrangements are being completed today for the transfer. Gen. Joaquin Tellez, federal commander of Guaymas, evidently expected to be executed but Alvarado telegraphs that he has spared his enemy's life.

Further advices from General Obregon indicate his victory at Guajalajara was most sweeping. Obregon's forces are pursuing scattered bands which fled to the mountains.

The Villa-Carranza mediators left Torreon today for their posts, having successfully arranged all questions brought before them. Their principal accomplishment was in temporary healing the breach between Villa and Carranza and in persuading Villa's fourteen generals, who recently repudiated Carranza, to re-swear allegiance to him as "first chief." General Angeles is retained in General Villa's army, despite Carranza's desire to oust him.

Flee Mexico City
MEXICO CITY, July 11.—All branch banks of the National Bank of Mexico are to be closed. There are 61 branches throughout the republic, many being in cities which have been captured by the constitutionalists. With a special train waiting here ready to start for Puerto Mexico, many former government officials and other leading Mexicans are expected to flee from the capital today. Esteva Ruiz, who has been acting as minister of foreign relations will be aboard this train it is declared. Many believe Huerta is paying the way for his retirement in the appointment of Don Francisco Carajal who was sworn in as minister of foreign relations last night.

CARP RAISED

With the aid of the city pile driver, the Carp, the big launch which was rammed and sunk Tuesday afternoon by the Kallian, was raised yesterday afternoon from the bed of the Mississippi river, where it sank under thirty feet of water. Diver Henry Hoffman discovered the location of the boat at a point a half block out from the Sta-Rite Engine works.

CROPS BOUNTIFUL SAYS HIRSHHEIMER

La Crosse Banker and Manufacturer Back from the West Says They Will
Exceed All Records

Never in its history has the west seen such bountiful crops. Business there is not bad—it is depressed, due to pending federal legislation. The lumber industry is not what it was. For weather and crops there is no state like Wisconsin.

These were some of the statements today of A. Hirschheimer, president of the Batavian National bank and head of the La Crosse Plow Co., who returned last night from a five weeks tour of the west. "In Washington and Oregon," said Mr. Hirschheimer, "they have never seen such grain crops as this year's. The fruit crop is equally as bountiful. This is true of crops of every state between here and the Pacific coast."

The lumber business is slow, due to lack of consumers. Mr. Hirschheimer is of the opinion that they will have no difficulty in harvesting the crops.

Business conditions, he maintained, are not as lively as they should be. This is caused, chiefly, he said, to pending legislation, the larger investors waiting the outcome of the trust bills now before congress. "There is nothing in particular which could be blamed for the depressed condition," he said, "the people are waiting to see just what the administration is going to do. I don't know as pending federal legislation will vitally affect people there but they are hesitant to invest and will not."

He says they are also waiting to see what effect the Panama canal will have on that section.

may read a communication from the North Side Progressive league asking permission to use the north side streets for a carnival.

The application for a carnival was held over and will be acted upon at a special meeting of the council to hear arguments on the Worth ordinance.

A resolution by Ald. Strauss provides for the repairing of West avenue from Main to Jackson streets.

War on Expense

A report of the city clerk showed that it cost the city of La Crosse $644.93 to run the police automobile during 1913.

Ald. Big Smith thought the amount outrageous, explaining that he runs his cars for much less. Ald. Torrance says his auto bill is nowhere near that amount.

Alderman Mahoney defended the amount pointing out that the car is used winter and summer, that storage has to be paid on it because the city does not provide a place to keep it and that it is used in all kinds of work for the city.

Autos Must Wait

Hereafter autos will not dare pass a street car while it is halted for the purpose of taking on or letting off passengers. The measure is one calculated to promote public safety and is in force in practically every modern city in the country.

To end what promised to be a long-drawn and bitter contest the ordinance to create a city purchasing committee, was re-referred. It was recommended for death by the ordinance committee and a minority report was brought in by Ald. Kempfer.

Despite the fact that Mayor Sorensen left the chair to fight for the passage of the "near stop" ordinance the measure was killed and cars will continue to stop on the far side of the streets.

Big Delinquent Tax
By request, Ald. Barth introduced for his first reading an ordinance to compel saloons to take curtains and screens from doors and window of saloons after closing hours.

The uncollectable delinquent tax for 1913 totals $749.62 reported Ald. Torrance, chairman of the finance committee. City Treasurer Young was authorized to strike the amount from his books.

The council will return to the one meeting a month system. The bi-monthly meetings were conceived as a plan to shorten sessions and save the city money. Instead they have increased the labor for city officials and have saved nothing. The resolution to return to the old system was introduced by Ald. Torrance and met little opposition.

Ald. Mahoney read a lengthy resolution protesting on the lack of enforcement of auto regulations.

BANK EMPLOYEES HELD FOR THEFT OF $85,000 FUND

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 11.—George F. Hoffmeister, auditor of the Colonial Trust company, and Herman Borchers, paying teller of that bank, were under arrest today following an alleged confession that they stole $85,000 from the reserve fund of the Freehold bank on May 23. The money was in the safety deposit box of the Freehold bank in the vault of the Colonial.

Will "Ush" at the Bijou

All arrangements have been completed by the members of the Manufacturers' and Jobbers' club, with the Bijou management, to handle the big crowds, which will rush to the Bijou theater next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, to see themselves in the Home-Coming pictures, which were produced on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, during the Home-Coming celebration, by the Advance Motion Picture company of Chicago.

A telegram was received yesterday, saying the 3,000 foot La Crosse picture would be here without fail, on next Monday, July 13. If you were on the street on one of the last three days of Home-Coming week, your picture was surely "look" by Van, the camera man. Did you ever see a crowd of 35,000 or 40,000 people? These pictures will show the biggest crowd ever gathered in La Crosse, taken from the barge "Mississippi" just as the sun was setting, and there was some crowd in the new Riverside park that Fourth of July evening, watching the fireworks.

The following business men of the club will usher the crowd to seats at the Bijou during the showing of the pictures: Ed Colman, John Kroner, Bert Van Steenwyk, Charles Van Auker, John C. Burns, William Fox, Carl Michel, Frank Sisson, D. W. MacWillie, Harry Hirschheimer. Matinees will be given Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 2 to 5, and the evening shows will run from 7 to 11 for the four days.

(Copyright, 1914, by New York Evening Post.)

NEW YORK, July 11.—So far as regards today's stock market it was again made up of weakness in the few particular stocks which have been under pressure all the week, offset by a manifest tendency to firmness in the rest of the list. New Haven shares suffered heavily in connection with the continued reports of a dissolution suit. One really notable incident was the statement of the whole country's bank exchanges for the week. Comparing with a full six day period in 1913, they increased more than 14 per cent and are close to the high figures for the period in 1912.

Early in the present year, one of the most astute and successful forecasters of the movements of finance, had this to say of the American situation: "The January rise on the Stock Exchange, and the February spurt of recovery in trade, were quite false starts; there was much to be liquidated and overcome in our own and the foreign market before any genuine trade revival could begin. The framework was all ready sound and strong in its fundamentals; but we must not delude ourselves into thinking a period of gloom and despondency between then and the middle of 1914, could be avoided. When the psychological moment should arrive—the forecast proceeded—everything would depend upon the harvest. If we had crops of average magnitude, the real recovery would begin."

The middle of 1914 has arrived, and nature has certainly done her part.

Couldn't Be Done This Time

A stout woman was always in the habit of buying two seats when she went to the theater, in order that she could have plenty of room. The other afternoon she went to a matinee and, passing inside, handed the two tickets to the attendant.

"Where is the party who is going to use the other ticket?" he asked.

"I'm going to occupy both seats myself," explained the woman. "I'd like to see you do it," said the attendant, looking closely at the tickets. "The seats are on opposite sides of the aisle."—Pearson's Weekly

Pat's Ingratitude

Two Irishmen were navigating the rough seas of Randolph street the other night, finding it anything but smooth sailing. One of them, who seemed to have a trifle less aboard than the other, was supporting his friend, evidently against his will. The latter was sobbing like a child.

"Why, Pat," he cried, trying to wrench himself loose from that gentleman's grasp; "Pat, me boy, what have I ever done to ye that ye won't let me fight ye?"—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Misled

The customer in the grocery store, having ruined his clothes, was hopping mad.

"Didn't you see that sign, 'Fresh Paint'?" asked the grocer. "Of course I did," snapped the customer, "but I've seen so many signs hung up here announcing something fresh that wasn't that I didn't believe it."

CHURCH NEWS

Episcopal Bishops

Target of Attack.

Two Episcopal church bishops are just now targets for severe attacks. Both take the Low Church side and the attacks come from the High Church one. Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts advised in his official address to his Diocesan Convention in May that Episcopal churches in his diocese admit to the Holy Communion persons of other Christian faith. He argued that a Common Prayer Book law, seeming to forbid such course, really has a different meaning, and gave historic data to prove his contention. He said such has been the rule in Massachusetts from earlier times.

Bishop Rhinelander of Pennsylvania, co-operating with some Philadelphia rectors, gave permission for Presbyterian and other ministers to speak from an Episcopal pulpit. The reasons put forward were a desire to try our church unity, the Episcopal church priding itself on being a leader in that movement, and the conviction that the ministers directly affected have Christian messages to deliver which local Philadelphia conditions stand in need of.

Jewish Rabbis Hold

Annual Conference

The Central Conference of Jewish Rabbis, just holding its annual meeting in Detroit, took vigorous action to overcome, if possible, prejudice of Christians, many others against the Jews as a people, and against their religion. It authorized the issue by a special committee, of literature to counteract the many misrepresentations made by magazines, newspapers and organizations of the Jewish people and their religion. It even went so far as to demand the prosecution of organizations declared to be guilty of these things. The most important decision it made from a Jewish point of view, was to co-operate hereafter with all national Jewish organizations and for synagogues to give support to all Jewish organizations.

Activity Great in

Heresy Controversies

Mid-summer activity in Presbyterian heresy controversies is great. To push the conservative side, rumors of new newspaper ventures are heard, and men formerly taking no part have come out into the open. The General Assembly committee, appointed to find out if Union Theological Seminary is entitled to all of its endowments or not, on the ground that it teaches one theology when it received money to teach another, declare that it will finish its task this year and give up part of its summer vacation to do it. Its chairman, the Rev. Dr. John F. Carson, is writing vigorously on the conservative side.

The thing that precipitated the summer activity was the bequest of the late Mrs. Morris K. Jessup of New York to Union Seminary of $300,000 on condition that it teach the Bible in its plain English version, minus higher criticism. Conservatives are saying that this condition well represents the mind of the great body of American Presbyterians, and they are watching to see what Union will do. Some say it cannot accept the money; others that it will accept it and go on as it has been doing. The late Morris K. Jessup was a liberal benefactor of Union, and it is over part of his gifts to it, but not all, that the General assembly investigating committee is concerning itself.

This summer controversy is aroused to the point of charging in print and otherwise that Union Seminary is receiving money under false pretenses, and that it stands ready to accept the Jessup $300,000 in the same way. Presbyterian weeklies in Philadelphia and Cincinnati are carrying this controversial matter by the page.

Education Association

Rejoices in Success

The Catholic Education Association, which has just held its 1914 meeting, rejoices in its success at securing a hopeful measure of co-ordination and co-operation between the parochial schools and schools for higher education, including the secondary schools for men under control of the orders. The Association has now nearly 1,800 members, some of these being not individuals but educational societies. Fifteen seminaries, eighty-five schools for men, six for women and fifty-four seminaries were represented at this year's meeting.

POEMS

You Ought To Know

THE THREE FISHERS

By Charles Kingsley

Three fishers went sailing out into the West.

Out into the West as the sun went down;

Each thought of the woman who loved him the best;

And the children stood watching them out of the town;

For men must work and women must weep.

And there's little to earn, and many to keep.

Though the harbor bar be moaning.

Three wives sat up in the lighthouse tower,

And they trimmed the lamps as the sun went down;

They looked at the squall and they looked at the shower,

And the rack it came rolling up ragged and brown!

But men must work and women must weep.

Though storms be sudden and waters deep.

And the harbor bar be moaning.

Three corpses lay out on the shining sands

In the morning gleam as the tide went down,

And the women are weeping and wringing their hands,

For those who will never come back to the town;

For men must work and women must weep.

And the sooner it's over, the sooner to sleep—

And good-bye to the bar and its moaning.

FOREIGN MARKETS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, July 11.—Two new records in stocks were made on the market today within the first half hour when New Haven dropped four points to 55 1/2 and Ontario and Western lost a point, thereby dropping to the lowest figure in twenty years. The New Haven drop was believed to be the result of liquidation by holders who were apprehensive of suit for dissolution under the anti-trust law, such action being regarded as inevitable.

11 a. m.—In the face of new low records in New Haven, Missouri Pacific, Ontario and Western, Western Maryland and Western Pacific, the latter of which sold at 23, two points off, the general market preserved an undertone of strength, a rally coming at the close of the first hour.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, July 11.—Ideal weather conditions and lower cables gave wheat a general bearish sentiment throughout the short market today. Rains in North Dakota and Canada, where they were needed, and a declining market on the Liverpool close were the influences.

Corn became excited and had a spectacular rise. Offerings were very light and reports through producing regions of hot and dry weather caused the shorts anxiety and forfeited the holders to demand higher prices. Closing bids were from 1/2 cent higher than the early features. Moisture deficiency in crop belts may seriously damage the yield.

After a featureless early market oats followed corn and scored advances of from 1/4 to 1 1/2 on the day. This was due to considerable advance sales.

Provisions were dull and firm. Hog receipts at the yards were only

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD BY HAL SHERIDAN

Still the Giants hit the slippery chutes. Dropping another to St. Louis they were hooked for the fifth consecutive time and pulled down to within two and a half games of the Cubs.

The Pirates dropped their third straight by tumbling before the Phillies.

The Cubs finally got to the Boston Braves and won while the Giants were being trounced. Schulte hit for a homer, triple and single and was walked twice out of five times at bat. Zimmerman drew a pair of doubles and a single.

By the time the Brooklyn-Cincinnati game was over most of the Cincinnati team had been put out of commission. Herzog used 19 men.

The Athletics and Detroit battled for eleven innings without a decision. A total of 27 hits were registered for the afternoon, the Athletics gaining 16 and Detroit 11.

Fifty-fifty was the best the Yanks could do in the double header with Cleveland. Caldwell held the Naps to three hits in the second game and shut them out. Graner and Turner collected seven hits between them in the first battle and stowed it away for the Naps.

Washington stacked up enough runs in the first two innings to beat St. Louis. They used up four of the Brown pitchers.

Boston squeezed a game over on a fluke triple off the White Sox.

When Reading.

Has it ever occurred to you that, from the point of view of eyesight, there is a right way and a wrong way of holding a book? If you hold it the wrong way, especially if the pages be of smooth, shining paper, you will get a reflection hurtful to the eyes. An eye specialist has been pointing this out, and he says the thing could be remedied by using a certain kind of bookmarker which would destroy the reflection, and in that case you could hold the book anyhow you liked without coming to harm.

Throw Old Boots Into Sea.

A queer way of disposing of their old boots is followed by the Colombo police. When these "cast offs" have accumulated to a figure bordering round a thousand they are taken down to the police hulk in the harbor and thrown into the sea. Formerly, policemen were allowed to dispose of these, when they became unserviceable, but according to new regulations, they have to return to headquarters all boots when they get worn out.

AERO ELIMINATIONS ON AT ST. LOUIS

Nine Pilots Start in Trials to Pick America's Representative at Race
Next Fall

ST. LOUIS, July 11.—Nine pilots and their aides were out at Priestley's Park this morning supervising the flying of their balloons for the elimination race which will start at five this afternoon to decide who will be one of the American aeronauts to represent their country in the Gordon Bennett international race from Kansas City this fall. Captain H. E. Honeywell of St. Louis and Ralph Upson of Akron, Ohio, who have already won victories for America, will be the other two representatives in the international contest. They will attend the start this afternoon but will not participate.

The balloons are scheduled to get away in this order:

1—Hoosier: Pilot, Warren Raser, Brookville, Ohio; aide, Herbert Raser.
2—America III: pilot, Dr. Jerome Kingsbury, New York; aide, Lawrence P. Wynne.

3—San Francisco, 1915: pilot, E. S. Cole, St. Louis; aide, R. E. Emerson.
4—Uncle Sam: pilot, Paul McCullough, St. Louis; aide, William Trefts.

5—Miss Sofia: pilot, William Assman, St. Louis; no aide.
6—Aero Club of St. Louis: pilot, John Berry; aide, Albert von Hoffmann, Jr.

7—Kansas City II: pilot, John Watts, Kansas City; aide, W. F. Comstock.
8—Pennsylvania: pilot, Arthur Atherholt, Philadelphia; aide, Philip Sharples.

9—Goodyear: pilot, R. A. D. Preston, Akron, Ohio; aide, M. D. Tremeltn.

Experts say Preston should be the favorite for he drew last place in the start and will be able to crowd more gas into his bag for the sun will be low and its expansive power less late in the day.

A cash prize of $1,000 will be divided by the Aero club among the last four to land.

FIGHT OVER GIRL TWO ARE WOUNDED

NEW YORK, July 11.—A gunmen's quarrel over who should dance with "the belle of Greenwich village"—Identity unknown—on the East Side early today resulted in two men being seriously wounded.

To get funds for the defense of Thomas Burns, in the Tombs for grand larceny, the Robert Kelly association gave a ball.

John C. Borst insisted on dancing with "Greenwich village's belle" and the man who took her to the ball drew his revolver and fired at Borst, who fell with three bullets in him.

James H. Oliver attempted to avenge Borst's shooting and dropped with a bullet through his leg. Oliver, with his wife, fled, and the police rushed to the scene.

Although told he was dying, Borst insisted he could not identify his assailant. Later the police picked up Oliver. He admitted being shot by the man who shot Borst, but refused to answer any other questions.

Rightly Proud of His Road.

Two Pullman porters, representing different railroads, met off duty and progressed from friendly gossip to heated argument. Their quarrel centered about which one worked for the better road. Their claims, figures and arguments came fast and furious. At last the tall, thin porter settled the dispute with these classic words: "Go on, niggah; we kills mo' people den you fellahs tote."

Any cigar dealer will tell you that the mild Tom Moore is a splendidly "married" cigar.

He means that the "feel" and appearance prove the presence of hand workmanship.

The long, clean filler, the binder and the Sumatra wrapper make one of the smoothest drawing cigars you ever introduced to a match.

LA CROSSE GOLFERS IN LAST STAND FOR HIXON CUP

Will La Crosse take the J. M. Hixon cup in the last play of the home and home tournament going on now at the Links of the La Crosse Country club?

The La Crosse golfers say yes, and the Madison people say no. Only excellent playing on the part of the La Crosse putters will pull the cup out of the fire for the local club.

With a lead of 57 points in the play, the Maple Bluff people feel certain of taking the trophy back to their clubhouse on the banks of Lake Mendota.

La Crosse has one chance to take the cup—if they play today in their usual form. On the local links, the La Crosse golfers have always bested the capital city men and they went out this afternoon determined to repeat the trick. It remains to be seen whether they succeeded or not.

The Madison golfers arrived yesterday and today, making their headquarters at the Stoddard hotel. Early this morning they were out on the links tuning up for the day's play.

Luncheon was served this noon at the club in honor of the Madison people. Dinner will be served this evening at 6:30, and will be followed by a dancing party.
